Police close in on murder victim's ID

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Investigators suspect the murder victim whose legs were found in Newport Township in January may be Stacey Froebel of Carol Stream. However, confirmation of the victim's identity is expected to take at least two more weeks.

On Jan. 16 the McClure family on Edwards Road, let their dog out to roam in the morning. When the dog returned, she had brought back a severed portion of a human leg. On Jan. 21, the same dog brought home the left leg. Police have determined both legs belonged to the same body.

After several searches of the area, police could not find any additional clues. A monitor was placed on the dog with no results and police have since removed See VICTIM page A10

Resident killed on dangerous road

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Antonio Espinoza, 19, of Antioch, was killed early Monday morning in a crash in Salem Township. The accident occurred when the car Espinoza was traveling in skidded into the westbound lane and collided with a car driven by another Antioch resident, Carl Mueller, 45.

"Two vehicles were traveling westbound on Highway C," said Sergeant John Heiring of the Kenosha County Sheriff's Department. "The Espinoza vehicle was traveling eastbound and slid across the centerline.

The car was hit broadside, square in the door. It was a T-bone collision."

In all, six people were injured in the accident. Mueller, and passenger Sherri Parrish, 37, of Antioch were treated and released. The driver of the victim, Salvador Sanchez, 36, of Kenosha, is in satisfactory condition at St. Catherine's Hospital in Kenosha. Also in the car with Salvador and Espinoza were Jose Espinoza of Antioch and Leonel Espinosa, 19, of Kenosha. They were treated at Kenosha Hospital and released.

"It was crazy," said Heiring of the large number of automobile accidents that occurred late Sunday night, early Monday morning. Many rural streets in the county were ice coated. A Kenosha County dispatcher said, "We had close to 100 accidents."

Following behind the Mueller vehicle, was a car driven by Andrew Bakanowicz, 18, of Woodstock. Bakanowicz struck the rear of Mueller's car but was not hurt in the accident. However, a Salem Rescue Squad worker was injured at the scene when he slipped on the ice. He was taken to Kenosha Hospital and released.

Only Sanchez received a ticket for the accident. Sanchez was charged with driving too fast for conditions.

Oakland School building would go to new district

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

It is official. Notification has been received by the Antioch Community Consolidated School District 34 that "ownership and control" of the Oakland School building would go to the proposed Lake Villa unit district if voters approve of the proposition.

"The transfer would be automatic," said District 34 Superintendent Daniel Burke. Burke had sent an inquiry to the Illinois State Board of Education to discover whether or not the district would be required to turn over the building if the new unit district is approved.

"We were not surprised by the answer," said Burke, "but given the considerable value of the asset in question, we thought it prudent to request official verification."

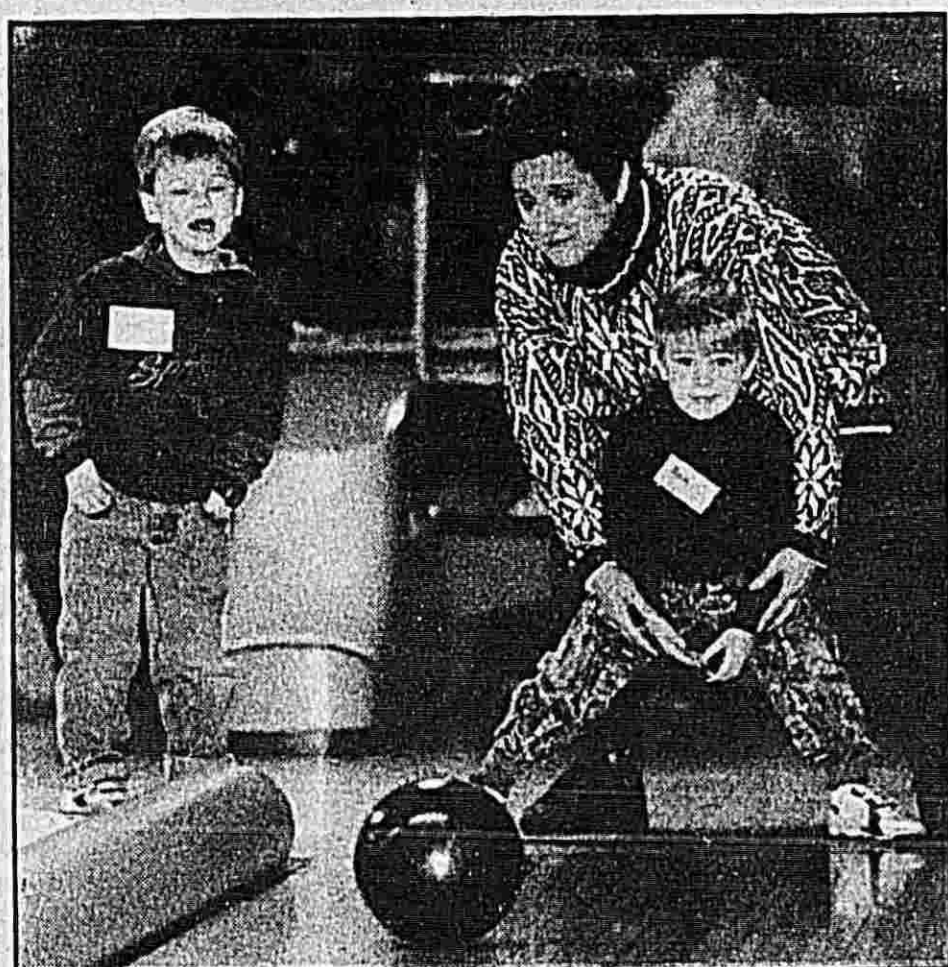

The Oakland building is located in proposed unit district boundaries. It is valued at $2,935,652, including the building, land, supplies, and equipment. Replacement costs are estimated at over $4 million.

With a possible loss of over $5 million in assets if the new district passes voter muster, District 34 officials are making an all-out effort to educate voters of the impact. In addition, District 34 is seeking court and legislative relief to make sure all the voters in the district have their votes counted as district members. Currently, school law permits only a small portion of votes (19 percent) to be counted as the district vote.

While the court case winds its way through the legal system, district parents are busy mounting a petition campaign. A volunteer group of concerned parents residing in Antioch Township have begun circulating petitions asking the Illinois General Assembly to approve legislation allowing all voters in the district to have their votes tabulated in the District 34 count. This is important to the district because every affected district must approve of the new unit district by a majority.

"There was a real nice turnout," said Burke about the petition meeting held last Tuesday. The group plans to meet again on March 7 to "see how they are doing."

See Me For Your 1995 Advertising Needs.

Whether business is good or slow, you have to get your share of whatever business is around. Cutting back your advertising puts you at a disadvantage the very moment you need an edge. Increasing your advertising gives you the edge.

In times of uncertainty, consumers are careful and a little reluctant to spend. They want information. One of the main ways they get information about products, services, prices and values is from advertising. Yours or somebody else's.

Here's a hard fact to chew on. Over any given period, a company that advertises below the industry average has sales that are below the industry average.

Advertising is news-about products and services. Most consumers look for this kind of news in the pages of their community newspaper. In plush times, retailers often experiment with other media. But when the going gets tough, they concentrate their efforts in the community newspaper because it provides immediate payoff at the cash register.

Now is a great time to call me. I have a genuine concern for my clients. I will never try to sell you more than you need. I work hard at finding what will work for you.

I can bring your business to the attention of over 200,000 potential customers in 13 papers across Lake County, or reach just one community! Call me today, your success is my business!

Marina owner 'fed up' with talk about sale

TINA L. SWIECH
Staff Reporter

The owner of the marina where the Fox Waterway Agency will have its new location, says he's fed up with the stories about the price the business sold for.

Ray Freeman, proprietor of Hidden Cove Marina, Inc., said he is tired of the arguing and the "sour grapes" over the Agency's purchase of the real estate on Rte. 12, and he wants to set the record straight.

Several weeks ago, the Agency agreed "unanimously," according to Chairman Dr. William Dam, to purchase the site. It was the best place they found for their new home because it is centrally located, has plenty of piers and ample room to hold meetings and store their large dredging equipment.

For a number of years, the Agency has been located on Grand Ave., and their marine unit sits on Nippersink Dr. off Rte. 12, north of downtown Fox Lake.

The office is too small for the growing Agency and the Village of Fox Lake has forced it out of their Nippersink location due to improper zoning.

When Freeman went to a price of $736,000 for the business he's had for 22 years, the Agency was in agreement wholeheartedly, reported Dr. Dam.

Michael Lescher, Re/max Advantage Realtor in Antioch, has been critical of the price the Agency agreed to pay for the marina.

Freeman believes Lescher's criticism is personal in nature since Lescher once listed his property.

Re/max Realtor Judy Martini works in the same office as Lescher, and she is a former Agency director who is now on the Waterway Advisory Board.

Martini has also questioned the site, but didn't say the Agency shouldn't go for it either, explained director Ron Baker who took Martini's place late last year.

Director Baker, owner of Bakers Marine Support in Antioch said he can't understand what interest Lescher has in the sale of the Hidden Cove Marina.

"To say it's not worth it, is wrong," said Baker. He explained there simply hasn't been any similar sites sold recently which could be compared to the Hidden Cove.

Also, as a salesperson and marina owner himself, Baker gave an anecdote about the couple who comes into his store to buy a boat and a motor. That same boat and motor doesn't fit everyone's needs. That's exactly how the purchase of Hidden Cove by the Agency should be viewed, said Baker. The business will be a specialty use and, "I think it will be well worth it for the Waterway Agency," said Baker.

Freeman can't understand Lescher's criticism over the sale, and he said there are other real estate agents who have thought the numbers were fair. Baker explained even Agency Director Bruce Bossow is in support of the purchase of Hidden Cove.

Bossow, longtime director, is a broker with Prudential Premium in Algonquin where he sells commercial and industrial real estate.

Freeman also wants to set the record straight about a rumor the state will condemn his property so the Agency can have it cheaper.

Not so, said Freeman.

The owner of Hidden Cove has started a new business—sales and service of cellular phones.

As an official Ameritech dealer, Freeman said he is currently searching for a location, preferably along Rte. 12 to have his telephone shop.

Freeman said he likes Fox Lake so much, he would like to continue doing business in the town. He praised the Fox Lake Fire Department and the village Street Department for their outstanding work.

Unit backers defend asset division plan

ALEC JUNGE
Staff Reporter

Unit District proponents are attempting to deal with the thorny division of assets issue with impacted school districts. They are preparing an agreement for all unit school board candidates to sign clarifying how the unit would handle the division of assets issue.

If the unit district referendum is approved in April, the new school board would have to negotiate the division of assets. The asset figure is based on the unit district share of each school district based on student population.

Three school board candidates for the unit board are members of the Committee of Ten — Joanne Osmond, president; Joyce Heneberry vice president; and Don Mertic, treasurer. The agreement would state what was expected from each school district.

"It's not going to cost the taxpayers of the affected districts," said Osmond.

David Leibowitz, attorney for the Committee of 10 from Freeborn & Peters, admitted that the asset division statement is a campaign promise and is not legally binding.

Voters in the six impacted districts will decide if they want a unit district to exist. Voters within the proposed unit district boundaries will determine if they want to finance a $39.5 million building bond for a new high school and elementary school. Also, they will choose a school board.

All of the Antioch and Grayslake high school districts, and Lake Villa and Millburn Elementary districts will vote on the unit district proposal. However, only the residents living in Lake Villa Township will be counted for the Grant High School District and Antioch Elementary District.

For example, the unit district backers want Oakland School, which is located in Lake Villa Township, as the division of assets from Antioch Elementary District. There would have to be an agreement for the first two years to determine which district would pay tuition to the other district.

Antioch Elementary officials are concerned they would have to lay off staff and the district would go into debt in the division of assets. They are not willing to give up Oakland School at this time.

For Grant High School District, the unit plan would not have the district owe the unit anything because there are only about 50 students affected by the plan.

For Grayslake, the unit proposal would call for Grayslake High School to pay back the unit by giving the unit back the gain it would get from tuition payments. The tuition above the cost to educate students for a four-year period would stay with the unit and be counted as payment for division of assets.

In essence, Grayslake taxpayers would not have to pay anything to the unit district. The total of $2 million would satisfy the division of assets.

In Antioch High School District, the plan would have Antioch giving up Polley field. Also, the difference in division of assets would be financed by the surplus tuition funds.

For Millburn Elementary, the unit board would essentially rent the Millburn building from the Millburn school board. The unit would have 85 percent of the students attending the school.

Mertic said the unit could rent the school for a two-year period. He said the staff would be retained if the Millburn school board would concur with the arrangement.

Also, the division of assets would be financed by the rental agreement and taking funds to pay off a bond issue Millburn has.

Nothing taken from school

It appears someone entered Intermediate School on the evening of Feb. 26 or early morning of Feb. 27. The janitor called police at 6:42 a.m. to report a possible break-in at the school. It appears the northeast door was opened with $100 in damage to the wood structure and door handle. Nothing was found or reported missing in the school.

Person claims he was threatened

An unknown complainant reported to police he was threatened with a knife at the Linden Plaza on the evening of Feb. 18. He reported eight to 10 people with blue bandannas surrounded him and asked if he was alone. He told police one of the people pulled out a knife and said "I should stick you." Police were able to find the vehicle with the people who matched the suspect descriptions. They were unable to find a weapon and didn't arrest anyone.

Suspect begs for arrest

When police arrived they saw him walking next to Grand Avenue and almost fall into traffic. The officer asked to give him a ride home. Vettese refused and laid on the grass and asked to be arrested. The officer asked him to give him a ride home and he refused, at that point he was arrested.

Eight people were arrested after a drug bust in Round Lake Beach.

The arrests came on Saturday night after Round Lake Beach Police executed a search warrant at 902 Cedar Lake Road. Police found the suspects were allegedly doing drugs and drinking at the home.

"It seems from investigations this type of activity and partying occurred at the home almost nightly," said Commander John Laycock.

The search warrant was obtained through information documented over a long period of time, according to Laycock.

Arrested were the homeowner, Rochelle D. McLaughry, 34, for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. Also charged was resident Tracy Jones, 20, for possession of a controlled substance believed to be cocaine and possession of marijuana.

Kenneth Klerner, 21, 1512 Hickory, Round Lake Beach, was arrested for possession of marijuana, possession of controlled substance and delivery of alcohol to a minor. Kimberly Kavouras, 20, of Kenosha was arrested for possession of a controlled substance, possession of marijuana and unlawful consumption of alcohol.

Shanna L. Bauer, 19, 1321 Elm, Round Lake Beach, was arrested for unlawful consumption of alcohol. David Gonsales, 1229 Meadowbrook, Round Lake Beach was charged with contributing to the delinquency to a minor and possession of marijuana. Two minors were also charged in the case.

There was less than 10 grams of marijuana and cocaine uncovered during the raid.

In a related matter, another resident of 902 Cedar Lake Road,

Fred Cook, 23, was arrested on two counts of burglary and two counts of criminal trespass for a series of car break-ins on Feb. 27.

He was arrested after officers were called by a resident who saw a suspect break into his vehicle. Police were able to follow the tracks of the suspect in the snow and found 20 other vehicles broken into, according to Laycock.

Police then followed the tracks up the steps of the home on Cedar Lake Road. They were able to recover a briefcase, cassette tapes, a photo badge and wallet.

Police remind residents to make sure and lock their vehicles and keep valuables from their vehicles to make it less appealing for people who want to break into the cars.

Happy Birthday

Boy, I must be getting older faster each year as life seems to be wizzing by quicker and quicker. It is March already and it seems as if I just put up the Christmas tree. In reality, Santa has come and gone, the tree has been packed away for several months, the New Year started and Valentine's Day is in the past. March is a great month as it houses the first day of Spring which signifies new beginnings.

After I wish many Antioch area people a very Happy March Birthday, the rest of this particular column will be focused on a wonderful new beginning for "Hometown Goodies."

Goodbye/Thank You

This, my dear people, will be my last writing of "Hometown Goodies". I want to thank all of the wonderful people who have contacted me over the past six plus years with special news tidbits. I also want to thank Lakeland for taking me on and making this space available each week. Words cannot describe how personally rewarding writing this column has been for me for many, many reasons.

The most important of these reasons are—1) I got to talk with and meet many nice people over the past six years and 2) I had an opportunity to feel somewhat creative on a weekly basis as I put together the personal news tidbits that you graciously shared with me and with my readers. I believe this column always reflected how special our towns people are by sharing so many up-beat stories that involved so many special people.

When I began to write "Hometown Goodies" in December of 1988, I worried over what I could possibly share on a weekly basis. I set a one-year goal. After that goal was attained,

I attempted a three-year goal and as that goal approached, I extended it to five. Here I am, six years later writing my last column. Who would have guessed. As I have said many times over, it was never my column, but everyone's column. I was just the avenue that compiled your special stories and submitted them to Lakeland.

HOMETOWN GOODIES

I now retire from this particular adventure and do so with a somewhat heavy heart. A heavy heart that is self-inflicted because with me, old habits definitely die hard. I thank each and every one of you and Lakeland for putting up with me for so long. It has been a lot of fun. I will treasure this special six-year experience as a wonderful lifetime memory. Please read on.

Welcome

Yes, I turn in my "Hometown

Goodies" towel, grateful for the experience. It is easy for me to do so at this time because the person who is stepping up to continue this fine community service, this special link between friends and neighbors, is more than capable. I am more than proud to introduce you to my energetic, talented successor. Her name is Lynn Pringle and she will begin her journey with you next week. Trust me when I tell you she is a beautiful person, warm, caring and gifted in many ways. She is definitely gifted with a very special and personal style of writing that you will enjoy very much.

I will let Lynn tell you all about herself as she comes into your homes and our fine community through this avenue provided by Lakeland. I ask that you welcome her with open arms, embrace her with the same specialness that you extended to me over the years, and let her work her magic with your special, personal news items. Please call Lynn at 395-6364, introduce yourself and share a tidbit or two with her and in turn with your friends and neighbors in the Antioch area. Welcome aboard, Lynn! Have fun! I certainly did!

Big city luxuries found in our own backyard

Big cities. Full of people, places and luxuries. Do you ever miss some of the advantages of living in a big city? What kind of luxuries does a big city offer you?

How does a trip to a spa sound? Paper yourself with the luxurious feeling of being "redone" from head to toe. Indulge in a manicure, pedicure, a new hair style (with a new color), massage, perhaps a bit of tanning, an "herbal wrap" (or mud wrap, if you prefer)—a complete beauty makeover. You enter the doors feeling like yourself, but depart feeling like a new person. Doesn't that sound wonderful? If only you lived in a big city...

What about the perfect health club to make you shipshape to go along with your new look. The latest state-of-the-art technology in fitness equipment, saunas, whirlpools, along with personalized instructions. With all these perks, it would probably be a snap to get into shape. If only you lived in a big city...

Another big city advantage is the many back streets that you can browse through, hoping to find unusual, unique shops instead of the ordinary, mundane stores that are found on every street corner. Perhaps you'd be lucky enough to stumble across a small shop specializing in collectible miniature trains, or a quilter's haven that transports you back to grandma's front parlor. If only you lived in a big city...

Imagine entering a boutique and simply announcing to the sales staff that you are looking for something special for your mother-in-law and you simply don't know what to get, but instead of being pointed towards the sale racks, suggestions are given and garments are brought to you for your approval. If only you lived in a big city...

Dining in a big city offers you diverse variety of taste and ambiance. You can pop into a coffee shop for a quick sandwich, drop into a pub for a great burger, or step into an elegant atmosphere offering fine dining. If only you lived in a big city...

Pampering yourself, being indulged, enjoying personalized service, winning an dining till you can barely move—these are all creature comforts that we all crave. These traits are found in many big cities across the country—and in Antioch. Perhaps by looking in our "own backyard," we can discover the wonderful variety and service that Antioch offers. We'll find big city perks, but without the hustle and bustle of big city life.

Editor's note: Shop Antioch is a weekly newsletter showcasing Antioch's merchants and retailers. Prepared and written by Barbara Porch of Choosey Child.

Students learn about chemistry careers

MARY FOLEY

Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School chemistry students, along with upper grade students from Antioch Upper Grade School, Emmons, and St. Peter School, learned about careers in chemistry from Gurnee-based PPG Specialty Chemicals. The presentation was sponsored by the Science Alliance Program.

"We usually do labs," explained ACHS teacher Sharon Peterson. "This time we wanted to show students the various careers available in science."

The Science Alliance Program offers programs throughout the year bringing upper grade students to the high school. However, Peterson is worried about future funding. "They (PPG) have helped us fund this program," said Peterson. She hopes the ACHS Board of Education will pick-up the funding for next year.

"Our objective today is to tell you about some of the career fields available if you pursue your scientific studies," said John Niebauer, marketing manager at PPG. Niebauer briefly reviewed his duties, and then introduced some of the other employees.

From Greg Burdette, purchasing manager, the students learned the importance of locating, by way of exacting specification, the sources needed to make specialty chemicals.

"You don't need any special degree," Burdette told the students. "But, an engineering, business or chemistry degree would be helpful. You don't have to work in only one or two areas if you have a chemistry degree. There are many avenues for you."

The students then learned about how chemicals are mixed at PPG. "It's a lot like making a cake," said chemical operator Brian Wishau. Wishau told the group, "I have a little college background in engineering and chemistry. It does help."

Dave Adams explained to the students how he calibrates the instruments used by Wishau. "It is my job to make sure the gauges accurately measure pressure, flow level, and temperature," said Adams. "It is not a bad paying job either. We all affect each others job."

Senior Production Clerk Lorna Bacle told the students how she interacts with all the departments. "It is kind of like being a mom," she said of her job. "I make the instructions available to Brian in order to cook the chemicals. I have to make sure the instructions are right or the product is burnt and someone could get hurt."

Niebauer spoke to the students about the products made at PPG. He explained how the products made by PPG were used by other companies to make their end products.

"You can see how chemistry gets involved in all sorts of areas, including marketing," said Niebauer.

FROM THE Capital

US Cong. Phillip M. Crane (R)

Republicans' challenge is to undo crime bill

Perhaps the most difficult part of the Republicans carrying out their promises of the Contract With America will be the undoing of one of the worst acts of the recently concluded 103rd Congress—the passage of the 1994 Crime Bill.

Democrats were in control of Congress that year and were able to push through this atrocity. The $30-billion bill designed to reduce crime in the nation carried over $8 billion in social programs. Remember dancing classes for convicts and midnight basketball that was in the original bill?

The Senate is now considering the package of six crime bills sent over from the House of Representatives.

One of the main features of the new legislation is leaving it up to the cities and villages to determine if they should use federal dollars for the hiring of additional police officers. President Clinton and congressional Democrats made a big thing last year of the provision of the crime bill that provided for the hiring of 100,000 police officers.

What they didn't tell city and village officials is that the bill provided only payment of a portion of the salaries for the new officers from federal funds. The local jurisdictions have to put up at least 50 percent of the salaries in most of the cases, and the federal dollars will run out after five years.

In other words, it was a form of an unfunded mandate. Where are the localities to find the money to pay for the additional police after the five-year period is over? Most likely, they will be forced to raise money the old-fashioned liberal-spending way—by raising taxes.

The new crime bill would eliminate the money for police officers and programs in last year's bill and replace it with lump-sum crime fighting block grants that cities and villages could spend on what they felt best for their jurisdictions.

It is a Republican move to give back to the people the right to spend their tax dollars the way they feel will best benefit their communities. Many jurisdictions would prefer to use the dollars for other purposes than hiring additional officers. This bill permits them to use the funds in the manner they desire—including hiring more police officers, if they want to—not what Washington dictates to them.

The president has threatened to veto any legislation which removes the mandatory hiring of 100,000 police officers. If he does, we'll just have to fight back in an attempt to give communities their own say in how they want to spend taxpayer dollars to fight crime.

Student escapes dorm fire

On Feb. 20, a six-alarm fire broke out at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. An Antioch student was in harm's way at the Garden Park Apts., 607 Park St., Carbondale.

Rodney T. Holmes, a junior at Carbondale majoring in architecture, was fast asleep at 4 a.m. Holmes was awakened by pounding and screaming at his door. A person was screaming "fire, fire, the building's on fire! Go out the patio door." Holmes and his two roommates dashed for the door. Holmes managed to grab only his wallet and coat. The boys could feel the heat in the rooms as the smoke enveloped them.

They were lucky to be on the first floor. Those students on the two floors above all made it out by using a fire stairway.

By this time fire had engulfed 90 percent of the apartments, which held 88 students. Students were uninjured as the building totally went up in flames. As fire-fighters fought the fire, a Red Cross emergency truck pulled up and quickly passed out blankets and slippers to those who had only escaped wearing their nightclothes. In addition the Red Cross gave out coffee, rolls and a voucher for $140 to each now homeless university student. These vouchers were quickly turned into warm clothing as soon as stores opened.

As it turned out, two young students had been out all night, coming back at 4 a.m. when they discovered the building ablaze and everyone asleep. These two youngsters started going door to door, yelling and pounding on each door as they awakened all the students and ushered them out.

Local Carbondale fire officials are calling the two young people heroes. The Carbondale institution has long held the title of "party" school. This is the first recorded instance of partying all night that actually saved lives.

ENGAGEMENT

McCracken-Smith

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Smith of Lake Villa announce the engagement of their daughter, Stacey Smith of Edwardsville, to John McCracken of Edwardsville, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCracken of Downers Grove.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Richard Reinwald of St. John's United Church of Christ, Lincoln, Ill., on August 5.

The bride-to-be is a 1985 graduate of Antioch Community High School and a 1989 graduate of Millikin University with a bachelor of science degree in elementary education. She is employed as a fifth grade teacher at Venice Grade School in Venice, Ill.

The groom-to-be is a 1986 graduate of Downers Grove South High School, a 1990 graduate of Millikin University with a bachelor of science degree in business administration and a 1992 graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville with a master's degree in public administration. He is employed as an assistant economic development coordinator for Madison County.

The couple plans to settle in Edwardsville.

LETTER TO Editor

No unit district

Editor:

I feel that I need to write to the voters to clarify a great confusion with my name, as to who I am and what I support.

I am married to Tim Osmond and the mother of Colleen and Michael Osmond. My husband is the owner of Osmond Insurance and is an Antioch Township Trustee.

I have been employed as a Legislative Aide to State Representative Robert Churchill for the past 12 years.

I am NOT the member of the Antioch Community High School Board.

I do not support the formation of a unit school district.

I urge you to be an informed voter when you go to cast your vote on April 4. Look at the entire picture and how will this benefit the Antioch, Lake Villa, Grayslake, and Millburn. The Antioch Community High School has been servicing these communities for the past several years. I feel that the unit school district will benefit a chosen few at an enormous cost to all. I have supported the referendums of the past for our current high school. I believe strongly in reviewing the needs of our current school and encourage increasing the funding at the present location in support of our children. This increase in our taxes would be far less costly than what the unit school is going to cost each of us.

Please join me on April 4 in voting "NO" as to forming a unit school district.

ACHS to add second monthly board meeting

MARY FOLEY
Staff Reporter

Antioch Community High School has decided to meet twice a month instead of the regularly scheduled monthly meeting. In March, the board will meet on Thursday, March 2, at 6 p.m. and on March 16 at 7:30 p.m.

According to ACHS administrators, the first meeting of each month will focus on committee reports. This will enable board members a greater opportunity to exchange information. The second meeting will be a more general meeting, similar to the regular monthly meeting.

On a regular basis, the board will hold meetings on the first and third Thursday of each month. The first monthly meetings will be held at 6 p.m. and the second meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m. All meetings are held in either the school commons or the board room.

On the agenda for March 2 is an informational session regarding the Lake Villa unit school district proposal. The focus will be the impact of the proposal on Antioch Community High School.

District 117 has finalized its contract with new Supt. Dennis Hockney. Hockney will be on board starting July 1, although he is planning to visit the school in April for a week.

the tracking collar.

Froebel has been missing since January when she left her home in Carol Stream. Her car was found later in Streamwood.

"The total DNA process has not yet been completed," said Sergeant Rick Eckenstahler of the Lake County Sheriff's Dept. "There are several phases of the test and it will not be completed for two to three weeks."

However, Eckenstahler admits early results of the test have "not ruled her out." As more information from the tests comes in Eckenstahler said, "It narrows down the probability."

While Eckenstahler said signs indicate the victim is likely to be Froebel, no confirmation can be made until all the results are in. "It is premature to say it is her. It has not yet been confirmed. It would be irresponsible for us to say."

Detective Kevin Orr of the Carol Stream Police Department

agreed with Eckenstahler. "No, it has not yet been confirmed," said Orr.

In addition, police in Valparaiso, Indiana are still investigating the possibility the severed legs belong to a missing woman, Melanie Hostetler. According to Eckenstahler, the DNA testing done on Hostetler's parents has not been completed and may take even longer than Froebel's results. He predicts results from the Maryland laboratory, doing the Hostetler testing, will take another three to four weeks.

Hostetler, 21, has been missing since Jan. 14 when she told her boyfriend she was going shopping. Blood samples from Hostetler's parents were sent, along with DNA samples from the severed legs to be compared.

"It's frustrating for us," said Eckenstahler. "We would like an answer as soon as possible. Right now, we are not confirming it is Stacey. Maybe in a few weeks."

Rams, 'Devils hope to show they are among best

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

A mix of confidence and anticipation filled the week of practice for two 18-win teams as the second season approached.

"We feel pretty confident. It is our first home game in a month and we play pretty well at home," Grayslake's Dave Mendralla said.

Mendralla, of course, is the senior sharpshooter who averages more than 20 points a game. He has the ability to take over and completely dominate a game as he did in the fourth quarter against Grant. Grayslake made the final weeknight of the regular season unimportant with a 71-60 win, clinching the second straight Northwest Suburban Conference crown.

There were nary a basketball to be heard dribbling in the darkened gyms Friday and Saturday and that could mean only one thing.

That March Madness has arrived.

Mendralla and John Parr, the team's second leading scorer and top rebounder, were glad to see a full team practicing the afternoon after the clincher and seven days before the clash with Waukegan.

"He keeps us loose by yelling with intensity," Mendralla said of Parr.

"He is our leader; he always shoots the big shots," Parr said of Mendralla.

"I have been making them my whole life. As a point guard, you have to be able to handle it," Mendralla said.

Both standouts, of course, know the contributions of teammates is vital, especially in a season when both have been sidelined. Mendralla was ill and that illness creeps back every now and then and Parr was recovering from an ankle injury.

"Pete Neuberger has developed a lot since last year and Brian Fischer has contributed after not playing a lot last year," Parr said.

Mendralla said the team believes playing the best defense was the key before Wednesday's clash with Waukegan. The Rams were shooting for another possible regional final rematch March 3 at Deerfield. The seventh-seeded Rams beat the Warriors last year.

Defense is also the watchword at Warren. The Blue Devils surrendered a stingy 51 points a game before the tourney clash with Grant Tuesday.

Center Joe Bongratz entered the Waukegan sectional clash as Warren's leading scorer with 16 points a game Maurice Foster was second with 12. Bongratz led in rebounds with 8 a contest.

"The keys never change. We have to play very good defense and be patient on offense," Warren Coach Chuck Ramsey said.

Sequoits down Lake Zurich in regional semifinal

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

Playing on its home court to begin the second season, the Antioch Sequoit boys basketball team delivered with an 11-point victory over the Lake Zurich Bears.

Pacing Antioch with strong inside play was 6-foot 7-inch forward Eric Eckenstahler with several key blocks and rebounds as the Sequoits jumped out to an 11-2 lead. Eckenstahler finished the game with 4 blocks and 13 rebounds.

"We felt the game was decided in the first five minutes. We had some defensive breakdowns, mostly in blocking out," said Bears Coach John Zarr in retrospect.

Antioch looked like it had a runaway with a 20-6 first quarter advantage, but the Bears got things back on track in the second quarter with a solid defensive effort. They did not score until the 4:45 mark, but still managed to gain a 13-6 advantage for the quarter, finishing the half down 26-19.

In the second half, the Sequoits again looked like they would run away with a victory, spreading the margin to 42-25 with 1:47 left in the third with a 15-foot shot by junior guard Kevin Geraghty. But the Bears again battled back on the strength of 3-point shooting, knocking down three in a row to finish the quarter down by eight.

"The eight 3-pointers were a big part of the game, but they were more out of necessity. We typically don't want to shoot as many as we did tonight," said Zarr.

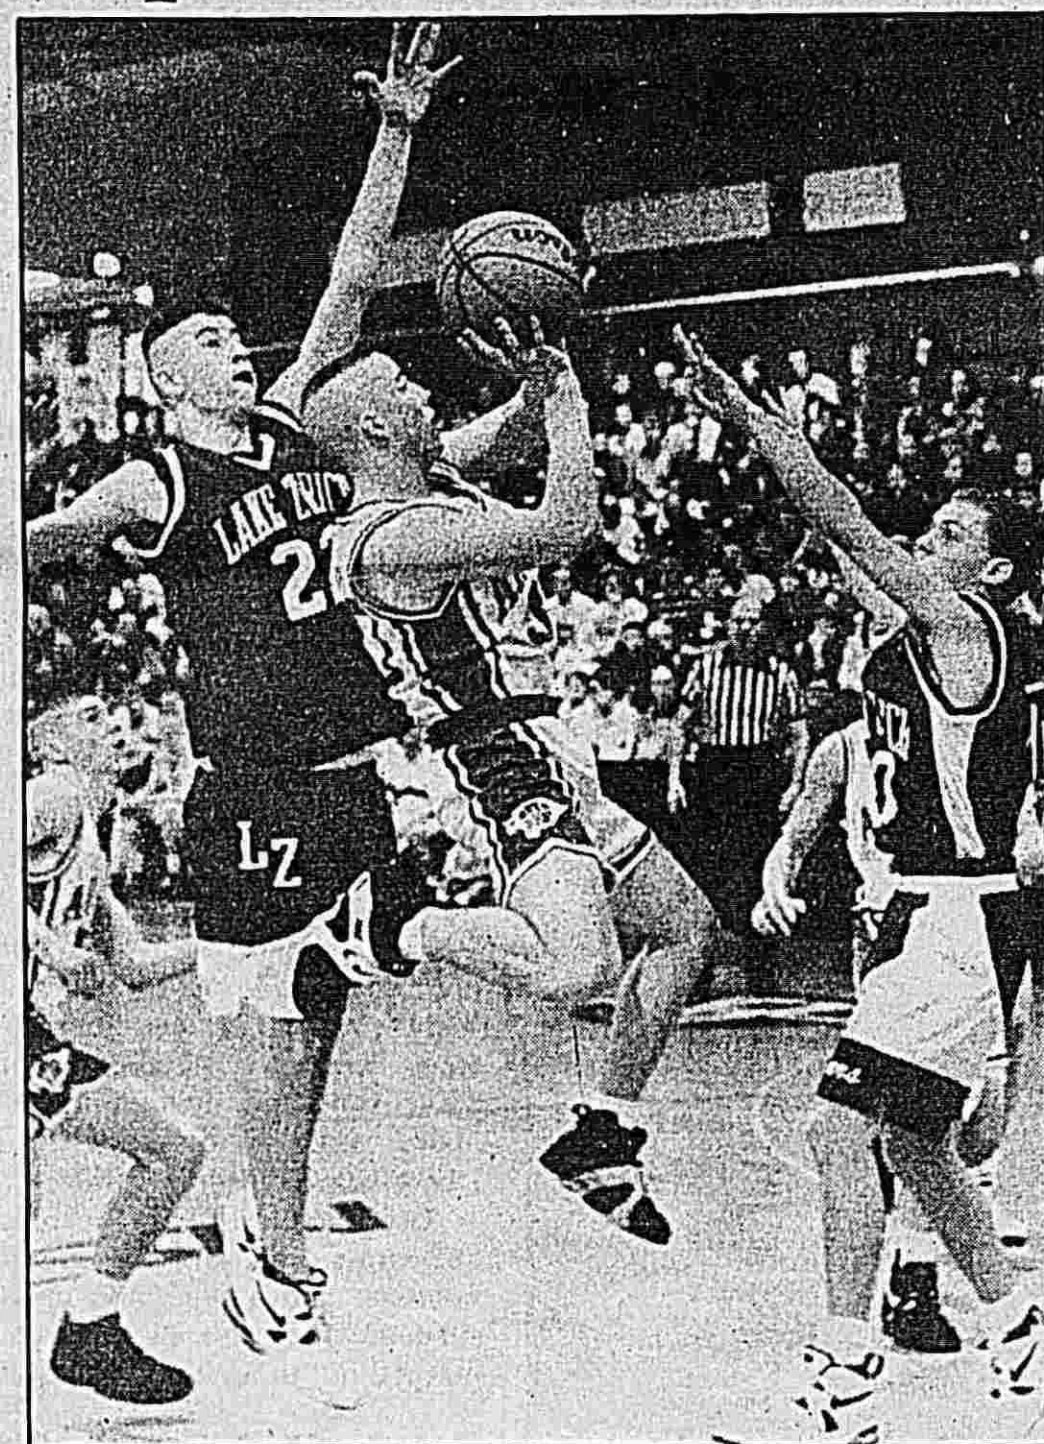

The fourth quarter was a trade-off of turnovers and free throws, but it was the strength of Sequoits at the line that sealed the victory after Lake Zurich pulled within five with 55 seconds left in the game. The Bears employed a half court trapping defense, fouling to stop the clock, but could not cold not overcome the margin as Antioch sank four out of five one-on-one attempts to end the game with a 55-44 score.

"We had some mental breakdowns. Our back court dropped down to help and left the perimeter open. But we teach team defense and it's hard to break these habits," said Sequoit head coach Jeff Dresser.

Dresser was confident looking forward to Mundelein, a team the Sequoits lost to twice during the regular season. Antioch will play on the Mustang's home court March 3 at 7:30.

"It's tough to beat a team three times. We're not in fear of them. We respect them and I'm sure they feel the same way," he said.

Scoring in double figures for the Sequoits were Eric Campbell with 18, Eckenstahler with 14 and Geraghty with 11. Topping the Lake Zurich club were Jim Roberts with 14 and Jon Gifford with 12.

Woods aims for winning program in girls basketball

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

Determination, commitment, persistence and attitude—these motivational clippings were some of the key ingredients

Coach Dave Woods used to help turn around the girls basketball program at Antioch High.

Each week Coach Woods used one of these motivational buzzwords to prepare his team for upcoming games. And the girls responded by manufacturing one of the best seasons in recent memory—since the early 1980s—for Antioch girls basketball.

But when Woods assumed the duties as head girls basketball coach two years ago, his intent was not only to produce successful seasons, but to build a winning program in the Sequoit tradition.

"Once you develop a strong program, the wins will take care of themselves," said Woods, who pointed to Warren and Libertyville as high schools with longtime winning traditions.

"We still have a long way to go, but we're going in the right direction," said Woods, whose team finished fourth in the North Suburban Conference with an 8-8, 11-15 record. The team was also seeded No. 5 in the regional and earned its first regional home game since the new seeding system was implemented.

What is more, the Lady Sequoits' record could have tipped more heavily in the win column as a number of their losses were close games, and two were determined in overtime. At one point in the season, Antioch boasted a 6-1 conference record.

"There were probably five games that were decided by 2 or 3 points," Woods noted. The highlight of the year may have been the victory over Warren after the Lady Blue Devils had just defeated No. 1-ranked Stevenson.

But Woods credits the girls—"athletes," as he fondly refers to them—for this year's success. In fact, Woods said the secret of his coaching success is not differentiating student-athletes between boys and girls, but respecting them all as developing high school athletes.

"I demand a lot and I really push," admitted Woods. "They never complained; they always worked hard, and they adjusted to my style of coaching."

Warren girls reflecting on many pluses to year

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Victories over the two teams which clashed for the right to go to the Sweet Sixteen, another 20-win plus season and the coach's 300th career win.

An impressive resume, indeed, for any team, including the Warren Township High School girls basketball contingent.

The 22-5 year began with the news that Felicia Sartin, a senior, was transferring from Round Lake. The move joined two good friends, Sartin and Julie Minuskin.

"Two-tenths of a point separated the two in scoring," Warren Coach Bruce Campbell said.

Both finished at just over 15 points a contest.

Although they would rather be on the court facing Stevenson instead of on the sidelines at the sectional final game, the regional champions began to reflect on their success. This after the shock of a 60-50 loss to Libertyville caused by a LHS player who found her shooting range instantly after missing most of the season due to injury.

"The kids played well most of the year. At the start of the season, you hope the players reach their capabilities and they did," Campbell said.

Warren finished second in the North Suburban Conference behind Stevenson, which three-peaked. Warren downed Libertyville in the second round when the Wildcats did not have guard Jessica Narajowski and Stevenson 49-39 without the Catchings sisters.

Warren felt it belonged in the sectional semis as it was the third seed and downed Waukegan 54-46 for yet another regional trophy.

Seniors are led by Sartin's contributions. Sartin and Minuskin were named all-team NSC.

A handful of colleges are interested in Sartin, a 6-foot forward. These include University of Wisconsin-Parkside, University of Illinois-Chicago, University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Wayne State and Miami of Ohio. "She will definitely play somewhere next year," Campbell said.

Another senior, Amy Jensen, was named honorable mention.

"Amy had a great year. She did a lot of the little things that do not show up in the box score - assists, rebounds and steals. She played steady," Campbell said.

Jodi Botsford, a guard, will also be lost to graduation.

"She is one of the best defensive players. She got a few steals and was a big part of the press," Campbell said.

Janay Hanlin is a 5-6 guard who will be back next year. She found the shooting range and paced Warren in the first half to a six-point lead against the Wildcats.

"She has developed a lot better as a ballhandler. She worked on her shooting extra hard after Christmas, staying around after practice," Campbell said.

Back for next year will be post players Carrie Schneider, a sophomore and junior Tracy Fielder.

"Carrie was our second leading rebounder and Tracy helped a lot in rebounds and was a good defensive player. Both are sophomores and it is hard for sophomores to play on the varsity, but they handled it well," Campbell said.

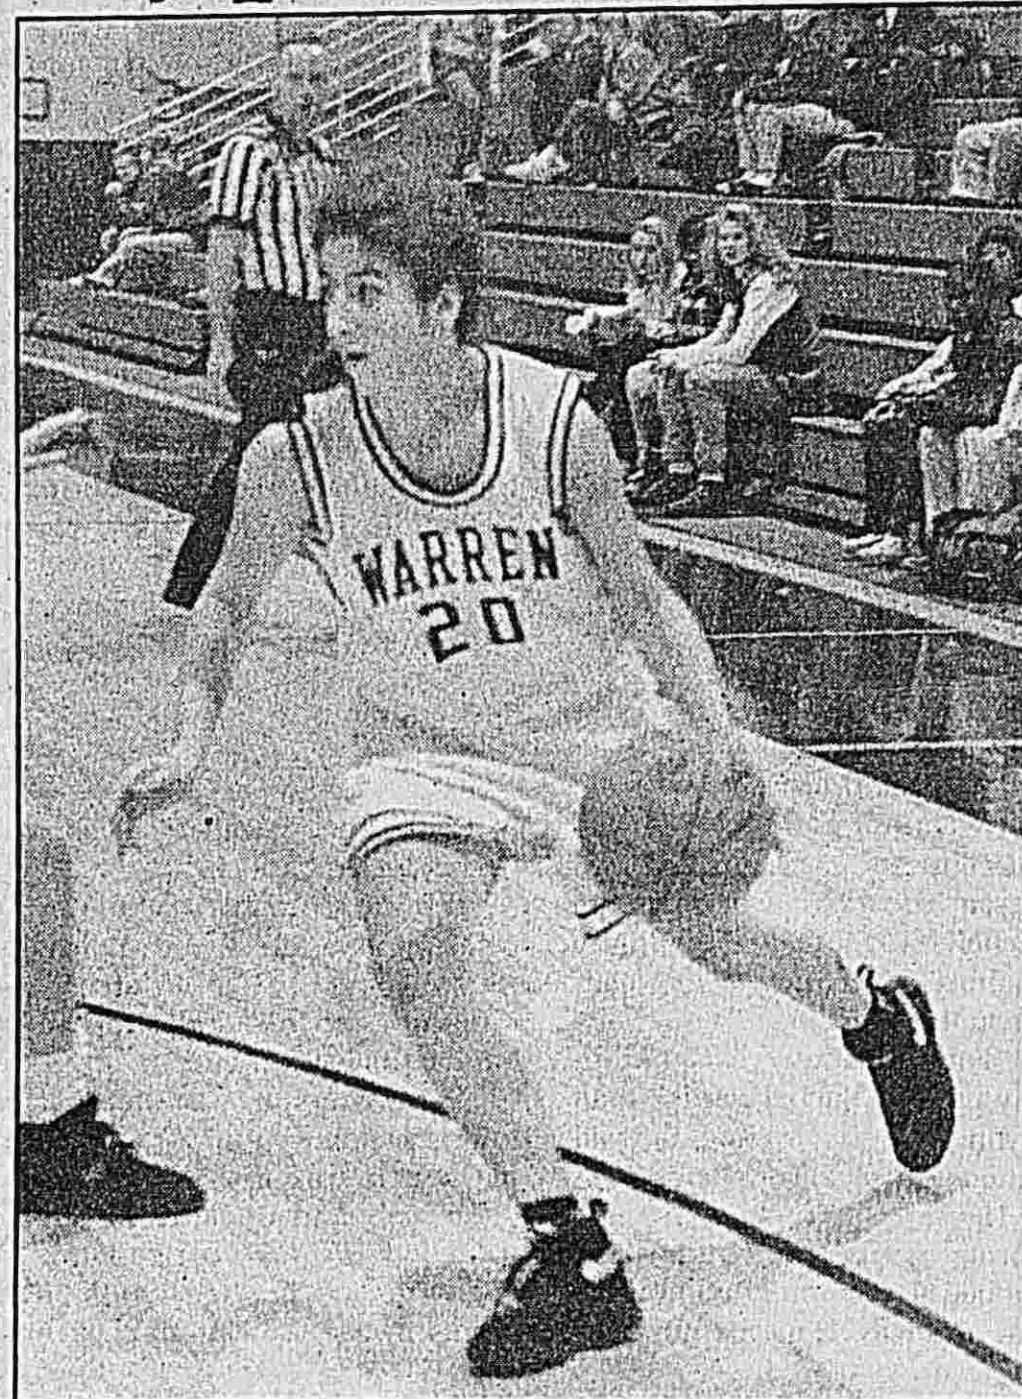

Amy Van Camp is a sophomore who "had a good year off the bench," the coach said.

Also back are forwards Angie Goutanis, Carrie Collins and 5-10 center Adele Smith. All will be looked to provide senior leadership.

It is not time to mull over a double digit effort in five minutes by a certain Bridget Fahmer, a LHS player in a "zone", but it is time to prepare the highlight film for the March 13 awards night and reflect on the 22 wins, including the 52-35 win over Zion-Benton for Campbell's No. 300th win.

Warren had success at the underclass level, led by the NSC title by the junior varsity.

Changes are in the works for next year as the Blue Devils are getting out of the annual championship at the Mundelein Thanksgiving tourney in favor of a more challenging tourney at Deerfield.

Warren JV girls garner North Suburban crown

Under the direction of head coach Ann Gebhardt, the Warren Township High School junior varsity girls basketball team completed a stellar year with a 20-2 record and a North Suburban Conference title.

Gebhardt, who directed many of the players as freshmen to a 12-6 mark, saw her team only lose close games to Mundelein by three points and Fenton by one.

The championship was not decided until the last game of the season. Warren entered the contest one game ahead of Stevenson, and needed a win over tough conference foe Libertyville to ensure the title.

Led by guard Nicki Wessel's 19 points, including 4 three-pointers, and a relentless pressure defense, the Blue Devils jumped out to an early lead and never looked back in a 48-20 win.

All of this came at the end of four games in as many nights. Warren sandwiched in two tournament victories and the championship of the Round Lake Invitational. Balanced scoring from a number of players and an intense defense were keys to the wins over Round Lake and Mundelein.

"It was difficult for other teams to defend Warren since there was no one or two people to concentrate the defense on. It truly was a complete team effort," Gebhardt said.

Team members included: Tara Baske, Caryn Poliquin, Dory Thompson, Wessel, Nikki Thompson, Lauren Ramsden, Tessa Schultz, Nicole Arizzi, Nicole Gallagher, Melissa Matthews, Amanda Adriansen, Kelly Theodore and Stacy Ray.

Basketball is a valuable commodity. Amy Van Camp leads Warren's effort to recover it vs. Grant. Warren beat Grant and Waukegan to win own regional title. Van Camp is a sophomore. Warren teammates Janay Hanlin and Tracy Fielder look on.

Four Warren High 3-pointers advance in shooting contest

Warren Township High School will be well represented in the regional final level of the three-point shooting contest.

Four Blue Devils advanced to the 6:30 p.m. March 3 competition at Warren, before the regional final game with Highland Park.

Don Hirschfeld and Ryan

Kelver had the hottest shots, with 9 of 15. Ted Makela had 6 and Eric Bradley qualified with 5 of 15.

Winners Friday qualify for the sectional March 7 at Waukegan.

After solid year, 'Future looks bright' for Lady Sequoits

KEVIN HANRAHAN

Staff Reporter

When reviewing the Antioch girls basketball season, the thing that immediately comes to mind is the balanced teamwork the players exhibited when competing against stronger opponents.

Antioch may have lacked the height of a towering Libertyville team and it didn't have two headline-grabbing stars like Tamika and Tauja Catchings on Stevenson, but the Lady Sequoits worked together, played a stiff defense and executed a frustrating offense that earned them a fourth-place finish in the North Suburban Conference and a No. 5 seed in the 16-team regional ranking.

What is more, the corps of this year's team will be returning to the court next season. The two players the team will miss are Rachel Hauser and Lindsay Hladnik, the team's senior leaders on the court.

"For the last two years, I probably pushed Rachel harder than anyone, and she responded," said Antioch Coach Dave Woods.

Hauser was second in team scoring with 167 points. She grabbed 36 rebounds and finished with 32 steals. Hauser's numbers would have been higher, but she missed four games due to an arm injury. Hauser was also an All-Conference Team selection.

"When we needed 2 points, Rachel was the go-to girl," Woods said.

Hladnik was generally the play maker on offense, and, consequently, she led the team in assists with 39. She was also a leading point maker with 99 points, and she was No. 1 in the steals department with 42.

Erin O'Connell, the multi-talented junior center, also dominated for the Lady Sequoits this year. She led in scoring with 173 points and was second in rebounds with 77. Defensively, O'Connell was credited with 14 steals and 5 blocked shots, another category where she led Antioch.

"Erin O'Connell is a player who can do it all," Woods noted. "She plays great defense, rebounds, scores and she can handle the ball very well."

Dana Pierson was another multi-faceted weapon who could play on both ends of the floor offensively and defensively. She truly demonstrated her shooting ability down the stretch with 18 points in the upset over Warren and 13 points in the regional title game against Carmel.

"Dana is one of the best shooters we have. She's got good range," Woods said. "On the other perspective, she plays great defense."

Pierson snatched the most rebounds with 80, racked up 143 points and contributed with 30 assists. She was second in the number of steals with 38, and Pierson led the squad with the number of charges taken with 5.

Mary Ipsen started to peak right before her season ended with a knee injury. Nevertheless, she was a leading rebounder with 55 boards and garnered 68 points despite having her season cut short.

"Mary was starting to play really great basketball, and then she got hurt," Woods said. "She's not very tall but she uses her body very well to get great position under the basket."

Two sophomores on the team, Carrie Gofron and Jeanna Miller, were pleasant surprises and were awarded with plenty of playing time. Both were top scorers with 118 and 78 points respectively. Gofron was also another top defender with 38 steals. Miller added 15 steals with fewer minutes played.

"Both have all the tools to be great ball players," Woods said. "Carrie has a great ability to score, and Jeanna loves to play defense."

This year's club will try to improve upon its respectable 8-8, 11-15 record next year with a nice blend of youth coming up and experienced varsity players returning.

"The future looks bright with these girls," Woods said.

Stars come from behind for win

The Lindenhurst Stars (U-14 girls) came from behind to defeat the Bartlett Lazars 4-3. Trailing 3-1 at halftime, the Stars started to play determined soccer scoring twice in '90 seconds. Both goals were by Samie Korbal, assisted by Francia Lopez and Amie Carlberg.

With two minutes left in the contest, Amie Carlberg, wide open 20 feet in front of the net, took a pass and put a rocket shot past the goalie for the winner. Assisting were Korbal and Sarah Rimkus.

The first half goal was scored by Katie Gofron, assisted by Korbal and Megan Rinkenberger. Others contributing to the victory were Jill Houghton, Becky Sosnowski, Amie Smit, Emily Ayre, Maureen Moran and Natalie Richter. With the victory the Stars improved to 3-2-1.

"Joe is so consistent. Every day he gives the same effort. He has a high level of effort on both sides of the floor," Ramsey said of Bongratz.

"Maurice adds a lot as a good scorer, plays with a lot of enthusiasm," Ramsey said of Foster.

Both 18-win teams feel they go seven deep in talent. Neither were picked to gain the sectional final round.

Warren finished second in the North Suburban Conference, tied with Mundelein. The Blue Devils believe they were that close to knocking off Zion and Mundelein in all three losses.

"Every time we lost, we bounced back. The kids are pretty resilient and ready to go," Ramsey said.

"After every loss, coach says the next game is our biggest game," Foster said.

Guard Joel Dangel leads in assists with 117 and Chris Hayes has 68.

Ryan Kelter has a remarkable 14 charges called against the opposition. Hayes and Dangel had 54 steals, Foster 53.

"Every day, it is defense, defense, defense," Foster said.

Senior reserves Brent Reimholz and Joe Merrick and junior David Moo push the starters. The same can be said of Brian Jaworski, Damion Forest, Ted Makela and Don Hirschfeld.

"They have shown a great deal of leadership. It takes a strong person to be willing to work and prepare and not be rewarded," Ramsey said.

Of note: there is nothing better in basketball than watching a game and sitting next to Jim Ackley of Mundelein. The likable Ackley was on hand for the Warren-Zion barn burner. The hall-of-fame scorer declined to do my scorebook, but knew everything the reporter wanted to know. In a class move, he came to the Zion lockerroom to congratulate the new conference champs from Zion while Warren folks moped and wondered what if.

Saturday was the usual shoot-around after practice for Warren High players. This certain friendly reporter was given the chance to join in the three-point shooting fun. The players were shocked to see 5, count 'em, 5, of 15 swish through. Sorry, guys, my eligibility was over about when you were born.

Woods

His character- and unity-building does not end on the practice and game courts. The coach hosted a Christmas party for the team, traveled together with the team to watch the sectional semifinal contests at Stevenson High School, and is in the process of planning an end-of-the-year party.

"A lot of these girls are close-knit off the floor," Woods said. "Things off the floor as well as on the floor help build that unity ... You can learn a lot about each other outside the basketball court."

Woods himself comes from a basketball background. A knee injury ended his college-playing years at the University of Wisconsin at Parkside, where his son, Jeff, now plays. After teaching in Buffalo Grove for five years, Woods took a 10-year sabbatical in the business sector by working with Marriott hotels and beginning his own business. But his true love is coaching and teaching, and he feels fortunate that he was offered the opportunity to do both again at Antioch High School.

"I can't explain how grateful I am to get back into teaching and coaching," said Woods, who coached underclassmen boys basketball at Antioch before taking on the head girls coach job.

With March Madness barely off and running, Woods said he is already looking forward to next year. He is speaking to junior high school coaches and giving them tips on what he is looking for in future high school basketball players, and he is seeking a variety of basketball summer camps and tournaments during the off season.

"Our expectations are rising. This is what it's all about: Planting that seed of success and growing with it," Woods said. "Gee, I wish we could have spring basketball."

RACES broadcasts news of last Navy flight

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE
Editor in Chief

It was the end of an era. When three Navy P-3 Orion planes were cleared for take off from Naval Air Station Glenview, Sunday, it marked the end of naval aviation in the Chicagoland area.

The closure of the runway was another step toward the final closing of the air station set to take place Sept. 30.

The Lake County Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Services (RACES), a group of amateur "ham" radio operators set up a special events station in the old tower on the base as part of the runway closing ceremonies.

Don Bolstad of Hawthorn Woods and Don Whitney of Barrington were co-chairs for the event. They were invited to participate in the final runway ceremonies by Captain James C. Schultz, commanding officer of the air station and a ham radio operator. Schultz, who owns a home in Lake Zurich, is a member of the group.

"In the past Lake County RACES has helped us with emergency communications during airshows and drill exercises," said Schultz. "They are a part of the history of the naval air station."

Schultz was attracted to amateur radios because of their ability to provide emergency communications.

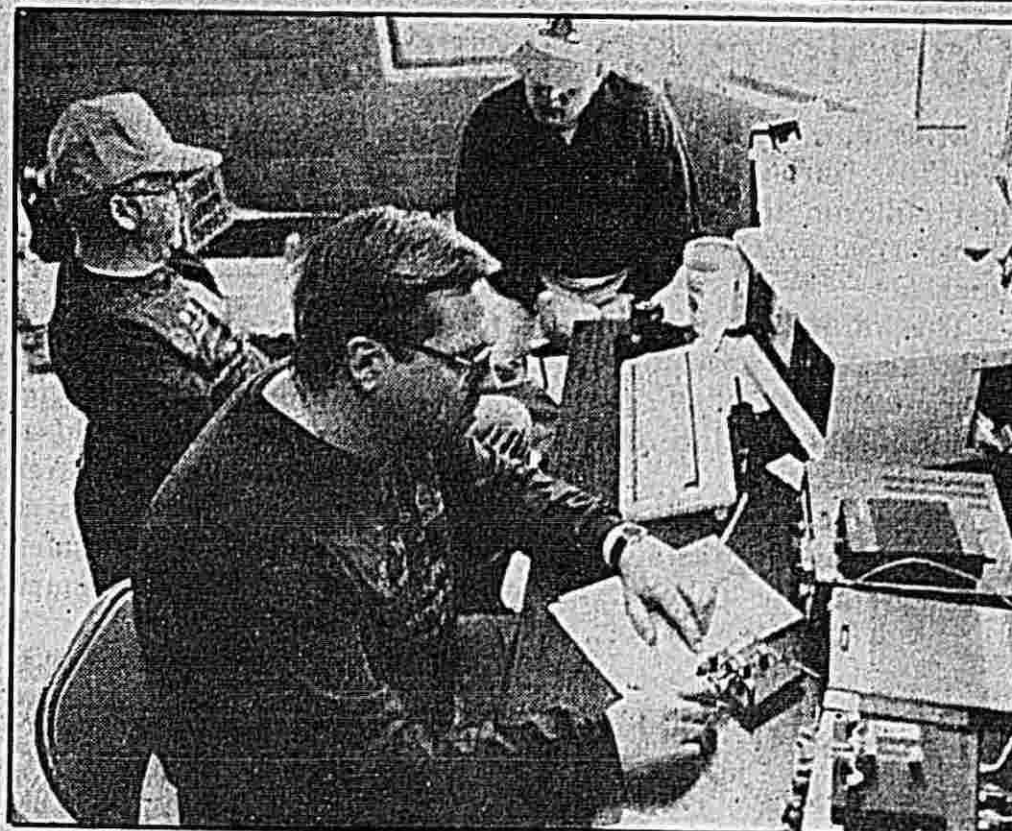

Bolstad said calls were received from throughout the nation as well as many countries including: Spain, Brazil, Spain, and Cameroon. "We had more than 1,200 contacts during the weekend," Bolstad said. "Many of the operators were active duty military members, retired military members or others who had experiences at Glenview."

While Pensacola, Florida may be the cradle of naval aviation, few county residents may realize that carrier aviation was pioneered off the bluffs of Lake Michigan at Naval Training Center Great Lakes in the earlier part of this century.

Many reservists from Glenview will eventually drill at the expanding facilities at Great Lakes. Housing at Glenview will be utilized by military personnel stationed at Great Lakes as well.

Naval Air Station Glenview was approved for closure by the Base Realignment and Closure Commission (BRAC) in 1993.

As bishop, Fr. Kicanas hopes to nurture new leaders

KEVIN HANRAHAN
Staff Reporter

For the past 25 years, Father Gerald Kicanas has spent his ordained life in the Chicago Archdiocesan seminary system encouraging both the young and the old to embrace and to serve the church. The soon-to-be bishop now wants to take his gift of teaching a step further by fostering spiritual growth and enlightenment on a grander scale.

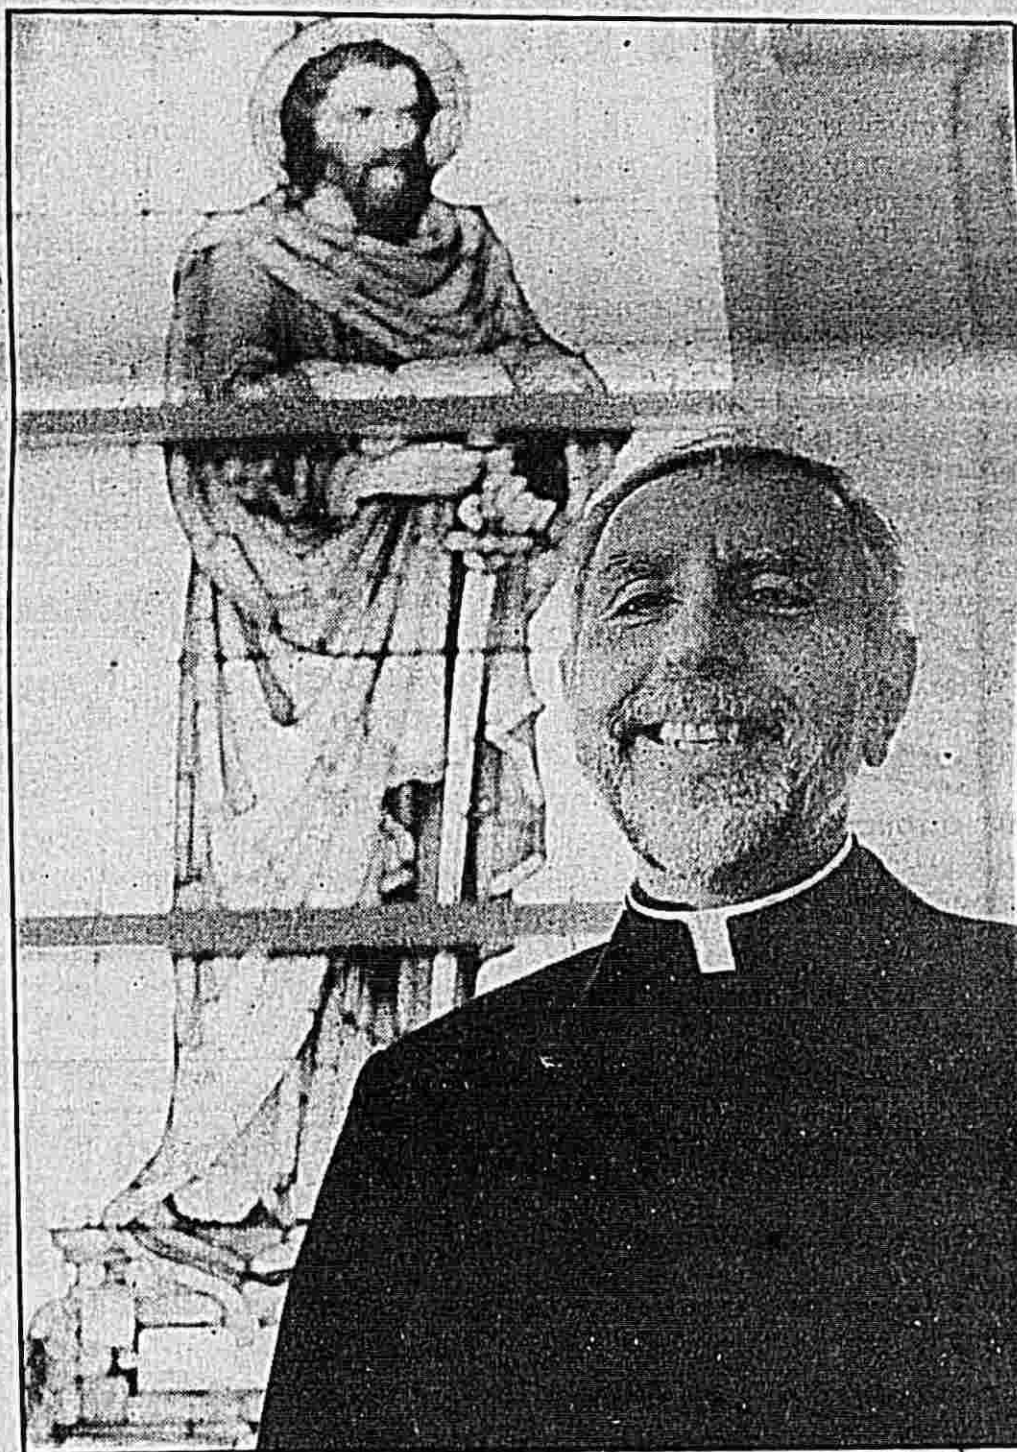

With the blessed approval of Pope John Paul II, Cardinal Joseph Bernardin named Fr. Kicanas auxiliary bishop of Chicago. As the new bishop of Vicariate I in the Archdiocese of Chicago, Kicanas will usher Catholic souls living in Lake and northern Cook counties, which includes 24 parishes in Lake County and 28 parishes in northern Cook County.

The priesthood always prevailed in the Kicanas household as he was growing up, for his father lived in an Indiana orphanage and was raised by a priest.

"My father used to say, 'My father was a priest,'" Kicanas said. "In our house, the priesthood was always valued and respected. Priests were always helping people, and I was drawn to that."

During his seminary years, Kicanas said he noticed how people longed for the Almighty Father, and he wanted to nurture that spiritual direction as a priest.

Ordained in 1967, Kicanas was first assigned to St. Joseph Parish in Libertyville from 1967 to 1970. From 1970 to 1984, he was a religion teacher, spiritual director, and principal at Quigley Seminary South in Chicago, while serving as the chaplain of the Cook County Juvenile Detention Center in Chicago. Since 1984, Kicanas has been rector at the University of St. Mary of the Lake in Mundelein while celebrating Mass at Prince of Peace Parish in Lake Villa.

As spiritual director, religion teacher, and rector, Kicanas found himself as a major influence in young men's lives by being in touch with them as they moved toward the priesthood.

"I really love teaching," Kicanas said. "High school is a great time of energy and spirit, and it can be an opportunity to be a source of influence in young people's lives. The amount of influence a priest has is probably more of a privilege."

But in this day and age of a shortage of priests, fewer priests are able to answer to a greater number of more complex needs and problems—from teenage pregnancy and gangs to medical-assisted suicide and capital punishment.

"Some people think of priests as above other people, as super human," Kicanas said. "A good priest is someone who has suffered and is aware of his shortcomings and is aware of his limitations." A priest needs just as much spiritual direction, friendship and family ties as a parishioner, he noted.

Furthermore, as today's fast-paced society creates more and more time constraints on parents and leaves less time for home and family, he said the church needs to welcome them more into the parish community to address their needs.

"Parenting is very demanding, and they come to church as a place for encouragement. Parents need a great amount of support these days. I think the church needs to speak wisely to family life," Kicanas said. Programs, such as day care and after-work groups for adults, are See BISHOP page B6

CLC awards contract for Lakeshore campus expansion

The College of Lake County board of trustees has awarded a contract for the college's Lakeshore Campus expansion project to Boller Construction Co., Waukegan, for $3.4 million for renovating the former Globe department store in Waukegan and $239,600 for constructing a skyway linking the current Lakeshore Campus and the new building.

Boller Construction was one of 12 general contractors who submitted bids for the Lakeshore expansion project. The bids were close in range, with only a 10.6 percent difference between the lowest and the highest bidders, and approximately 2 percent difference between the first and third low base bid, according to Arthur Kent, vice president for administrative affairs.

The CLC board executed an agreement last August to purchase the Globe building from the City of Waukegan for $185,000. The expansion project will add nine classrooms, including a science laboratory, a bookstore, a child care center and administrative offices. The space will allow the college to offer additional courses and expanded offerings in science, social studies and computer science. Additionally, the child care facility will expand access to education for students with young children.

The renovation project is scheduled to be completed by July, with the new space open for classes for the fall semester.

Couple raise more than $8,000 for infant seats

Mike and Beth Lambert of Winthrop Harbor helped to protect children by raising more than $8,000 for Operation Baby Buckle.

The fundraising activities by Mike and Beth have helped to guarantee child safety seats for distribution to low income families.

These efforts are a step toward providing safety seats throughout the Lake County area. "We want to have every child in a safety seat," said Mike. "We don't want even one child unprotected on Illinois' highways."

Operation Baby Buckle is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing child safety seats to families who could not otherwise afford them and to educate the public on safety issues related to child passenger safety.

Mike is a Primerica Financial Services agent, who along with 3,500 other agents from 42 states, three provinces, Puerto Rico and Guam, are committed to raise funds for car seats through activities in their local area. PFS has already raised $500,000 nationwide to buy car seats.

Pete Dawkins, chairman and CEO of PFS, encourages people to get involved with Operation Baby Buckle. "You'll accomplish some real 'good' and become a spokesperson for a cause that needs to be heard."

Operation Baby Buckle is a project of the Safe America Foundation. The Safe America Foundation is a non-profit group dedicated to encouraging safety at home, at work and at play.

Mike's Primerica Financial Services office is located at 1100 Sheridan Rd. in Winthrop Harbor and his office phone number is 872-7162.

Mike and Beth Lambert of Winthrop Harbor worked to raise more than $8,000 for Operation Baby Buckle.

Speaking up for children in court

Lake Co. Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) is looking for volunteers to represent abused and neglected children in Juvenile Court. Training begins March 4.

"It's one time when a concerned citizen from the community can get up in court alongside lawyers and present information that may have some impact on how the case goes," said Susan Grant, CASA Lake Co. case manager.

Since its inception in Lake Co. in October 1993, CASA Lake Co. has trained 65 volunteers. For further information about volunteering, call 360-2929.

AT A GLANCE

Proponents work on promise

LAKE VILLA TOWNSHIP—Proponents of a Lake Villa unit school are preparing a document they want all candidates of the possible school board to follow. Joanne Osmond, president, Joyce Heneberry, vice president and Don Mertic, treasurer of the Committee of Ten, backers of a proposed K-12 unit district for most of Lake Villa Township, are working on a campaign pledge which would state how the unit school board would divide the assets from the impacted districts. Each district must give up a portion of its assets to the new unit district if the measure is approved by voters in the April election.

District gives staff notice

WADSWORTH—Millburn school board gave notice to all staff and administrators they might not be hired back next year. The move was done because if the proposed Lake Villa unit district is approved, the Millburn Board doesn't know for sure how it can fund its programs because it would lose 85 percent of its tax base. Don Mertic, treasurer of the Committee of Ten, backers of the unit district, said the new district would rent the Millburn school from the Millburn Board for a two to three year period and retain the staff. Joanne Osmond, president of the Committee of Ten, said the move was a ploy by the board to scare voters.

Children get involved

MUNDELEIN—District 75's Washington School students are getting involved with what is going on within their school. One student has been chosen from each class of second through fourth grade students to form an 11 member committee. The Children's Committee is working to achieve an Earth Day Flag. The school has to provide three environmental programs for the school to receive the flag from the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County. The three programs are Wasteless Lunch Day, Paperless Class Day and the school is collecting the six pack plastic ring tops off of soda cans.

Boards back WTHS bid

GURNEE—Gurnee District 56 and Woodland Boards of Education are supporting Warren Township High School's bid for a west campus. Both boards passed resolutions of support. WTHS is seeking permission to sell $36.6 million in bonds for a two-year, dependent campus off Almond Road. Voters will decide on the April 4 ballot.

Hotel evacuated

GURNEE—More than 50 rooms of a Gurnee hotel were evacuated in the early morning hours of Feb. 25. A malfunctioning in the chlorine feeder is to blame, fire officials said. There were no serious injuries, but 13 people were transported or went to St. Therese Medical Center.

LHS gains Internet grant

LIBERTYVILLE—The State Board of Education awarded Libertyville High School a $60,000 grant to connect the Internet at the school, which will serve as a hub for all Lake County school districts interested in linking up to the information superhighway. LHS would be one of six main hubs in the Chicagoland area which will allow approximately one-third of the students in the state of Illinois to exchange and gather information through the Internet. In addition to installing hardware and software, most of the grant money will go toward training teachers on the net work who would then train other teachers from other school districts.

Police search narrows

ANTIOCH—While there has been no confirmation yet on the identity of the murder victim whose legs were found in Newport Township in January, police believe they may be narrowing the search. While complete DNA testing is not yet finished, some of the early results have turned police attention to the missing Carol Stream woman, Stacey Froebel.

Competes for crown

LIBERTYVILLE—Claudine Keating Cappelle, a 19 year old Libertyville resident, was crowned Miss North Shore and will compete in the Miss Illinois Pageant June 30. If crowned Miss Illinois, Cappelle will compete at the Miss America Pageant. Cappelle's platform for the pageants is education in community service. Cappelle has been working with the schools around Marquette University, where she is majoring in Mechanical Engineering, getting them involved with community service as a daily project.

Consultant hired for school

WAUCONDA—An auditorium consultant has been hired to work with officials of Wauconda Unit District 118 on designing an auditorium for Wauconda High School. The school is one of the few in the area that does not have an auditorium for school productions. Schuler and Shook, a theater consulting firm, was hired to determine a cost range, size and other parameters for what an auditorium should include. The consultant will also meet with faculty members, residents and members of a fine arts support group at an upcoming committee meeting.

Cardinal to celebrate mass

WAUKEGAN—Joseph Cardinal Bernadin will celebrate mass at St. Therese Medical Center March 11. He will honor the fifth anniversary of the Council of Catholic Nurses of Lake County with a mass at 11:30 a.m., followed by lunch at 12:30 p.m. Registration is required. Lunch is $10. Please call 360-2665 to register.

Orchestras seeks members

GRAYSLAKE—The Lake County Youth Orchestras are still recruiting members for their second season beginning March 5. The group, which includes string players ages 6 through 18, was formed by a parents group last year because of the lack of classical music programs in many Lake County Schools. The group will also complete its first successful chamber music session March 12 with a 6 p.m. performance at the United Protestant Church in Grayslake. Anyone desiring more information on the performance or for joining the LCYO may call 223-3206.

SWALCO center on hold

LAKE COUNTY—A plan to build a recycling processing center in Libertyville has been put on hold by members of the Solid Waste Agency of Lake County. Agency members want more information on issues regarding the private facility slated to be completed by next spring, according to SWALCO officials. The main issue concerns what the proposal includes and what it means to those communities who don't agree to it. Many communities have questions about the proposal, including Lake Zurich, which recommended the decision be tabled for one month. The action was unanimously approved.

Schools welcome DARE

FOX LAKE—The Johnsburg School Board gave the go-ahead for a DARE program to begin for students of District 12. The Drug Abuse Resistance Education program sponsored and taught by the Johnsburg Police Department was to start Wednesday for fifth-graders of the Johnsburg schools. "We're anxious to work with the kids," said Johnsburg Police Chief Ken Rydberg. Officer Pat Laycock will be teaching the DARE program, and has completed all of the necessary training. The Johnsburg Lions Club Quest program, similar to DARE, will remain at the Johnsburg schools. Quest deals with teaching the skills needed for growing in a positive direction, and is designed for kindergarten through fifth graders. An alcohol/drug abuse intervention program by Quest is aimed at sixth through eighth grade students.

Business growth not a tax boon

A new study by the Metropolitan Planning Council and the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago pricked the balloon that business development lessens the tax burden. When measured on a regional basis, just the opposite is the case, the study found.

The study correlates with a landmark finding three years ago in DuPage County undermining conventional thinking that non-residential development is a tax asset.

The reason is that people follow jobs. Economic development in one community may create higher tax rates for neighbors who do not benefit taxwise from business growth.

If anything, taken together the two studies support arguments in favor of adopting tax policies that impact on a regional rather than local basis. Shhh. Dare we say like a state-wide income tax hike? The studies also support the need for greater regional planning with an emphasis on long range thinking.

Save for county government's planning efforts over the years, Lake County's growth has resulted basically from a hodge-podge of individual municipalities each fostering self interest. No wonder that taxpayers have suffered, especially in light of the fact that business growth is a mixed blessing.

Anti-crime politics aided by less politics

Republicans were right on target in dismantling the Clinton administration's widely heralded anti-crime bill voted last year. Democrats were totally off the mark in accusing the GOP of scuttling efforts to put 100,000 police officers on the street to battle rising crime.

Despite all the hubbub over federal crime legislation, approximately 85 percent of the costs of the criminal justice system already were born by state and local government. So the Democratic claims for doing something about crime were outlandishly overblown and basically political.

Despite strings attached, 19 Lake County communities put in for the federal hand outs being extended under the catchy name COPS FAST. The program is basically a recruiting ploy. Clinton spokesmen didn't say how to fund future salaries, but we know, don't we.

The GOP approach of turning over crime fighting funds through block grants for state and local government is pragmatic and practical.

When partisan politics is wrung out of the equation, society is better off with mandatory time for offenders and requirements for "true time" served. The public feels more comfortable with "truth-in-sentencing" laws and bigger and better prisons. Voters want such things as teen curfews and boot camps for juvenile delinquents. They want curbs on paroles and parole abuses.

With personal safety at stake, it's not important which political party delivers the goods. If there's a gun at your head, it's what's delivered, not who. Republicans apparently understand this. Democrats don't.

VIEWPOINT Pump promotes latest gimmick in ad world

BILL SCHROEDER
Publisher

As if we don't already have enough advertising messages assaulting our senses every waking moment, a major oil company has come up with a scheme to pelt motorists with commercials while filling their gasoline tanks.

Spare me!

Blended with broadcast music, promos will be aired every three minutes at the pump and every 10 minutes in C store (convenience) interiors. Ads will be aired day and night, seven days per week, 365 days per year for merchants so inclined. Relentless persuasion!

No ad gluttons allowed. Advertisers will be limited to 18 spots per day inside the store and 60 spots per day at the pump.

There's a cost. Natch. Spots, whether you hear them or not over the gush of rushing gasoline or the roar of passing traffic, will run from five to eight cents each. Believe it or not, the pennies per promo add up to significant change in a hurry. Oil company moguls believe there are significant revenues in the pump audios.

What next, Mr. and Mrs. Consumer? It's your choice. Wear ear muffs when you fill up or avoid Amoco stations.

PRIMETIME—Planners of the annual Lake County Republican Federation dinner are wondering if their 1995 guest speaker will ascend to the same heights of prominence as last year's guest, Congressman Newt Gingrich, now a household name wherever politics is discussed.

Featured speaker at the Friday, May 12 event will be Massachusetts Gov. William Weld, a highly successful GOP office holder in a normally Democratic state. Weld gets mentioned as a presidential contender from time to time. If Lake County magic hits, he could be a "short lister" a year from now. Once again, the major Republican fundraiser will be held in the Grant Ballroom of Marriott's Lincolnshire Resort.

ONE MAN'S FAMILY—Winter can't end too soon for pop. He acquired a new seven wood—guaranteed "magic" on the links—and is itching to test the added weaponry.

Unions must be eliminated from public education

The time has come to eliminate unions from public education.

It could be argued that years ago teachers' working conditions, teaching and class preparation time and pay were inadequate for the responsibilities of a public school teacher.

That was long ago, and as unions during the Industrial Revolution improved the workplace for industry in America, unions also caused the demise of many industries with their limits on productivity, neglect of quality and excessive salary demands.

America has learned performance is rewarded and mediocrity is tolerated until it is replaced in the workplace.

I believe the teachers' unions in schools have done their job and are to be congratulated. Unions have made us aware of the value of a teacher. They have lobbied and succeeded in obtaining better working conditions, smaller classes, shorter school days, more free days, longer vacations, more class preparation time during the school day, comprehensive and free insurance, paid continuing education and, of course, more money for the teachers' union.

And this is why I believe the union must go from the public school. I said—more money for the teachers' union, not more money for the brightest and best teachers, but more money for the union.

Most parents and residents do not realize that when a school board and teachers' union settle a contract, it is the union that decides who and how the money is to be divided. The school board that provides the money from the taxpayers has very little say in rewarding excellence. The union decides and always pays its oldest, longest and highest paid more and most of the money.

The union process of protecting mediocrity and older union members has created a closed shop in most school districts whose young teachers with the brightest and most energetic teaching skills are locked out.

This is absolutely absurd! The younger and newer teachers are paid minimal wages so the union can again argue in the next round of negotiations how little its beginning teachers are paid.

This is why we see old driving instructors making over $70,000, a talented musical director paid $50,000 and an achievement oriented mathematics teacher under $40,000 at our local high school. Yet the salaries average over $60,000.

The teachers' union has done its job. Its members and our children go to the same workplace, work the same hours—yes, I will not forget about all that time the teachers spend in preparation, grading, etc., but let us also not forget about all the time students spend with homework. That is why I still say same hours, time off, free days and vacations of over 14 weeks in a work year are certainly rewarding for a teacher.

Executives, managers and professionals, along with the majority of working America, work eight- to 12-hour days, five or more days a week and are lucky to receive four weeks of vacation.

Professionalism certainly indicates the teacher today does not require a union and the public school teachers' comprehensive compensation certainly cannot be criticized by its members.

The Round Lake school strike is just the latest event that indicates a need for reform. One local legislator has proposed, and will introduce legislation to limit the teachers' union's right to strike and use children as bargaining chips for their own benefit. Parents, residents and school officials realize the union strike is an antiquated process that hurts education and the students, the ones the teachers are professionally bound to serve. Unions, after all, want only one thing—money and more money. The union's demands to the school boards are designed to protect mediocrity, with the students as hostages if See COMMENTARY page B5

PARTY LINES

See Buhai clashing on new lands plans

Party Lines, the Lakeland Newspapers column of political commentary, is prepared from staff reports.

Old east-west rivalries likely will break into the open soon on the land acquisition committee of the Lake County Forest Preserve Dist.

Proponents of new acquisitions west of Rte. 41 led by the chair Rep. Suzi Schmidt

(R-Lake Villa), are expected to find opposition from district strong man Rep. Robert Buhai (D-Highland Park), who favors district expansion in eastern sectors of the county.

"Buhai wants to squirrel away all our money to buy property in Ft. Sheridan," one district commissioner declared. The military land still is bound up in efforts to divide the space for public and private use.

A rising priority for acquisition is being given to land in Lake Lure (Mud Lake), which makes up a major part of territory now targeted by the Pritzker family for development south of Rte. 134 in Avon and Grant townships.

Mud Lake is regarded as a pristine wetland and is the focal point of the county's largest watershed, stretching 28,000 acres and touching points as far away as the Wauconda area and Ivanhoe west of Mundelein. Mud Lake once was sought by the Illinois Dept. of Conservation as a refuge.

Tradition: When traffic court was located in Waukegan, one of its traditions was a gumball machine. Funds from the machine would go towards needy Waukegan families. Lake County has moved the courtroom to Lakehurst and the gumball machine will soon be on its way, Waukegan Mayor Bill Durkin said. Durkin made the remarks at a courtroom open house on President's Day.

Basketball fans: Warren Township High School Board of Education members met 90 minutes earlier than usual Tuesday. The board met at 5:30 p.m. leaving plenty of time to attend the Warren-Grant game at WTHS. The contest was a first-round clash in Waukegan sectional play.

No for now— Grayslake High School District 127 Superintendent Ray Novak has gone on record as philosophically in favor of unit school districts. However, he does have a bone to pick with the amount of cash expected from his district if the Lake Villa Unit is approved by voters April 4. He was asked during a Grayslake Chamber luncheon how he would expect people to vote with nearly $6 million due to the newly formed district if approved. "As of today, without any more information, I would have to say 'vote negative,'" he advised.

Family affair—Gail Kellogg said there is no correlation between her running for Kildeer trustee and Brooks Kellogg, her husband, stepping down after serving two terms. She said he did not find out about her candidacy until after she had filed, and was quite surprised to learn she was willing to devote her time to the village.

Sporting note—Please, high school sporting fans take heed. When the Stevenson girls basketball team captured the sectional championship, excited fans stormed the basketball court, swarmed the team and literally knocked some of the players to the floor. One Stevenson stand-out starter laid flat on her back for a half hour after fans stampeded her. She laid motionless with ice packs on her knees, while a call went out to paramedics. School spirit and enthusiasm are one thing after an exciting victory, but this incident proved the dangers that can occur when fans bombard the floor. Party Lines encourages celebration after an emotional victory, but leave the court to the players.

Schools get mandate help—Gov. Jim Edgar has signed into law a measure sponsored by Sen. Dick Klemm (R-McHenry County) to give Illinois schools more flexibility in dealing with costly and unnecessary mandates. Effective immediately, Senate Bill 22 will give relief to school districts if they already meet the mandate's intent.

The new law outlines rules for school districts seeking a waiver or modification or any state mandates or State Board of Education rules and regulations, but exempts rules and regulations applying to teacher certification, special education, teacher seniority and tenure. Schools will have the opportunity to meet their students' needs with available funds. Klemm says the new law will provide schools flexibility in planning their budgets and establishing their curriculum." Party Lines applauds Klemm for working diligently on unfunded mandate reform, an issue dear to all taxpayers and taxing bodies.

Priced-right movies come to Fox Lake—A

Downers Grove-based company whose motto is "Where movie going is still fun and affordable," is due to open

Klemm a new theater in the heart of the Chain O' Lakes. On Saturday, officials from the Village of Fox Lake, the town's Chamber of Commerce; and the owners of Classic Cinemas, Shirley and Willis Johnson; as well as Lakeland Plaza owner Dwight Yackley gathered for the groundbreaking ceremony of the movie theater. Fox Lake Mayor Ken Hamsher explained the theater will be good for the Fox Lake economy. "Movie theaters provide a draw for other local business, which in turn should increase the revenues for all nearby retailers," he said.

Yorkhouse news—Waukegan Mayor William Durkin is circulating a letter to village mayors urging them not to support the claims by the Citizens for a Better Lake County that show the extension of Yorkhouse Road through the Wetlands Demonstration Project would destroy the nationally known research project. Durkin urges the communities to support the extension. The county is proposing to spend more than $12 million to build a three-quarter mile extension through an environmentally sensitive area to benefit the Waukegan airport. The project would put a large portion of county tax dollars at work to benefit a very specific area.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Hold the line

Editor:
All baseball fans and especially season ticket holders, hold the line and refuse to buy tickets for a time, and give the millionaires, the players and the owners, a taste of their own medicine.

They should have settled that dispute on their own time, and not interrupted the game, hurting die hard fans, and all Americans who listen on the radio.

Commentary

the boards do not give in.

We cannot have serious reform, and most of all, school financing reform, until the teachers' union, the IEA and IFT are removed from the process. If our legislators consider any reforms that provide additional funding for public education, it will only be opening the public's pocket-book again to ever escalating and ascending salary demands. More money will never be enough. The unions have already proven they are counterproductive.

Quality education, performance compensation and responsible taxation say the time has come for the teachers' union to be eliminated from public education.

Editor's note: Jack L. Martin is a Libertyville businessman and chairman of Taxpayers for Good Government, a Lake Co. political action committee. He is also founder of I-RATE, Individuals for Responsible and Accountable Tax Equity, a Lake Co. tax watch group.

My journey ended Jan. 27 and 28, 1995, in Fox Lake, Ill.

I have been searching 28 years to find the family and resting place of my friend Mary "Doc" Eastham. Marty suffered a fatal gunshot wound trying to offer first aid to me as I lay critically wounded. Since that day, my desire has been to express my love and gratitude to Marty's family and to kneel at his grave to thank him for his valor and tell him that our bond of friendship and love burns in my heart forever.

Thank you is not enough. I am writing this letter to express my appreciation to the members of the Fox Lake community who were instrumental in making my miracle happen.

I made a call to the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce which was answered by Diane Freeman. She gave me the phone number of Grant High School and the Fox Lake Press. Her assistance and kindness was the beginning of a wonderful chain of events.

My next call was to the classified office of the Fox Lake Press. There I spoke with Ann Roberts. She helped me draft an ad asking the community for any information about Marty Eastham, in hopes that I might get closer to finding Marty's family. Ann was very helpful and was touched by my story and what I was trying to accomplish. She asked if she could tell my story to Tina Swiech, a staff reporter and editor. I said okay, and shortly thereafter was contacted by Tina.

Tina wrote a story detailing my efforts in finding information about Marty. This story was read by ex-police chief Ron Nagel. He had been Marty's best friend since grade school. He contacted Tina to get my phone number. His phone call to me was a miracle. He had a phone number for Marty's mom. I could finally reach my brother-in-arms' family.

The final call to Minnesota brought Marty's mom, Blossom, Marty's kid sister, Leona, and cousins Anita from Maryland and Dean from Chicago into my life forever.

We all met in Fox Lake and shared our love and memories of Marty. We shared pictures and told our stories. We made a trip to the cemetery to place our flowers and love at his grave. We began to heal, not as strangers, but as family.

After leaving the cemetery, we decided to try and find a place to get lunch. By chance, we found a new pub and eatery called Doc "E" & Me. This was a miracle for us. Marty's nickname in Nam was "Doc," and the "E" was symbolic for Eastham. It seemed perfect for us to share a meal as the newfound family of Doc "E" & Me. The owners, Pat and Jeanne Doyle, were very kind to us. They were touched by our story and happy to be a part of our reunion.

It was an incredible weekend in Fox Lake, ending with a great dinner at Capo's Restaurant. Everyone who was involved in helping me find Doc's family was there. It was an evening and celebration my family and I will never forget.

Tina Swiech took pen to paper and composed an article that caught Ron Nagel's keen eye. Tina, you are an angel for all your effort and caring. Ron, you are the miracle that made the family connection.

So, thank you, Fox Lake, for these special people, and thank you for your warmth and love.

Sincerely,
Dick Coughlin

Appreciate open forum

Editor:
We would like to thank the Lake Co. regional school superintendent and College of Lake County for hosting the retired and active teachers with their legislators to learn first-hand the magnitude of the TRS health insurance funding crisis and solution options.

Thousands of teachers have retired with the expectation that health insurance would be provided in their retirement through the Teachers' Retirement System.

We now find that we are faced with the problem of no health insurance, or insurance that the average retired teacher cannot afford.

The state is obligated to continue to provide this coverage for those within the TRS system as it does for legislators, judges, state employees and university professors. It should be incumbent upon the Illinois Legislature to provide this health insurance for present and future TRS retirees.

We retired teachers of North Lakes IEAR appreciate State Sen. William Peterson and State Sen. Adeline Geo-Karis for attending this open forum to listen to these facts and to give us their full support.

North Lakes IEA-R

Unit school has come

Editor:
The Lake Villa Unified School Dist. is an idea whose time has come. Not only that, it should be copied throughout the state. We have lived in several different states over the years, and never have we encountered one with such a crazy quilt of school districts. I submit that part of the reason our property taxes are so high is that we are paying for two and, sometimes, three school districts at a time—each one with a highly paid superintendent and administrative staff. If school districts were to consolidate, many of these costs would drop dramatically.

Community unit school districts make sense. The current situation defies logic. Creating a Lake Villa unified district is a step toward restoring common sense to Illinois' educational system.

some ways to address those needs, he said.

Despite challenging work and family schedules, Kicanas said the unique and primary role of the church will always be to be there to help people in their spiritual lives.

"Busy schedules may occupy our lives, but they don't fulfill our lives," Kicanas said. "The church needs to remind people of the need of silent contemplation."

As bishop, he hopes to address some of those needs and encourage more people to get involved with the church in various capacities, such as pastoral associates, teachers, youth directors and volunteers.

"I want to acquaint people with the possibilities of the church," Kicanas said. "There are a great number of ways that people can give time and service to the church... You can train leaders in the parish to go out and call others to the church."

Officially as auxiliary bishop, Kicanas will find himself confirming many young people into the church, helping parishes do planning, offering advice to resolve conflicts, encouraging and challenging pastors and their staffs, and developing the overall spiritual growth of Vicariate I. But vocations and evangelization will be his primary goals.

"I think young people are very generous, sacrificing and wanting to use their lives in fulfilling ways. That needs encouraging," Kicanas said. "I hope to train people to be more active in their parishes... I hope to develop programs to help bring about justice and harmony between different ethnic and racial groups."

Along with bishop-elects Father Edwin Conway and Father George Murry, Fr. Kicanas will be ordained bishop March 20 at 3 p.m. at Holy Name Cathedral in Chicago.

Teachers, judge discuss violence in County schools

Juvenile Judge Margaret J. Mullen and Regional Superintendent of Schools Edward Gonwa hosted a meeting for school officials at the Hulse Juvenile complex.

It was the first time a meeting of this nature has been called whereby the Lake County Juvenile Court and school and law enforcement officials have met to discuss the many concerns they have locally regarding today's youth. The purpose of the conference was to discuss ways by which to improve upon juvenile court and school relations and to establish a needed liaison between the schools and the system.

Also addressing the group were Stephen E. Walter, chief judge of the 19th Judicial Circuit, and Henry C. Tonigan III, presiding judge of the Family Division in Lake County.

A cutline appearing on page B2 of the Feb. 24 edition contained two errors. State Treasurer Judy Baar Topinka, was referred to as state representative, her previous title prior to the November election. Baar was also misspelled. The errors are greatly regretted.

Jacques Brel is alive and well and coming to Vernon Hills

CLAUDIA M. LENART

Regional Editor

Harris Kal first experienced the musical "Jacques Brel is Alive and Well and Living in Paris" in 1972 when he was a freshman at the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana. It was a powerful and inspirational event. From that moment, he knew he would someday stage the production.

"The power of the show is such and each song is so unique and special. You never forget it," said Kal.

Twenty-three years and a bevy of roles later, Kal is bringing Jacques Brel to the Sullivan Center Theatre in Vernon Hills for two weekends, March 10 through March 19.

"I always wanted to do this show, but I never thought it would take me this long. It's a once in a lifetime opportunity," said Kal.

Kal, a Vernon Hills resident who grew up in Highland Park, got his big break in Hollywood 15 years ago when he landed the role of Bobbie, one of Fonzie's students on "Happy Days." He was with the show for the last four years and later went on to guest star in various television shows and had parts in movies. An athlete, Kal played the Pirate's catcher in "The Babe."

Most recently, Kal worked as special events director for the Multiplex Fitness Center in Deerfield. He now manages his own company, HJK Productions, which produces one-of-a-kind events which run the gamut from corporate parties to sporting events to theatrical productions.

Kal is particularly excited about his latest production, "Jacques Brel." Jacques Brel was a French composer and poet unwilling to abandon the joy or hope that makes life bearable. The musical was first staged off Broadway in 1968 by a group of Brel's friends in New York.

"They never realized it would be such a hit," said Kal.

"The songs of Jacques Brel are very heart sung. That's exactly how I am. I don't work from the top of my head; I work from my heart," said Kal. The message of the show is to have hope, to have love. The most well-known song from the show is the finale, "If We Only Had Love."

Kal has assembled a cast of fellow actors and singers who are equally excited about the production. They include Julie Murphy, Janet Reed Rumsey, Lauri Halma Swenson, Chris Lambros, Phil Hollingsworth, and Herb Berry. Musical direction is by Laurel Kaiser and choreography by Debbie Goldman.

Show dates are March 10, 11, 12, 17, 18, and 19. Friday and Saturday shows start at 8 p.m. with dinner from 6 to 7:30 p.m. Sunday matinees are at 2 p.m. with dinner from noon to 1:30 p.m. Dinner is an Italian Buffet. Tickets are $16 each or $15 for parties of eight or more. For more information call

Daytime lawyer inhabits stage at night

RHONDA HETRICK BURKE

Editor in Chief

Gary Saipe spends his days in a office on the top floor of a Chicago skyscraper dressed in a business suit and tie in the sanitized role of a real estate lawyer.

On his daily commute, he scribbles down lines and rehearses parts in his mind. By night he can be found on the stage floor in the role of writer and actor or in his Libertyville home pounding out changes to his scripts.

"As a lawyer you observe people under a variety of circumstances.

You have to have grace under pressure," Saipe said. "As a writer and actor, you can play. You adopt an air of a character. You can pretend. Far more people will tend to applaud a performance when I'm finished than a contract."

Saipe is hoping to hear a great deal of applause as his first play opens at Waukegan's Stage Two. Saipe will play the antagonist in "The Point Man," which he began writing in 1992.

The world premiere is set for March 9 at 7:30 p.m. The play will run through April 9.

The plot evolves around three lawyers who thought they were in a meeting to close the deal on a strip mall but find out they are in for an entirely different type of closing—a crossword game orchestrated by aliens to see which planet should be eliminated from the galaxy.

Saipe describes the play as a science-fiction drama but the dialogue touches on very real 20th Century issues of materialism, family values and what defines success in American society.

"I've been toying with the idea of the play for many years," Saipe said. "I've always done crossword puzzles on my commute. It occurred to me a plot in which someone needs to finish a puzzle correctly the first time, without any mistakes in a life and death situation, would be engaging."

The play involves three very

different characters: Alex, Buzz and Candy. Alex and Buzz are partners in the firm while Candy is an associate.

"I've tried to make the audience identify with the characters and feel for them," Saipe said.

Saipe plays Buzz. Charles Mueller will premiere the role of Alex and Heidi Feldkirchner is Candy.

As the characters work to solve the puzzle, the also work through their individual issues with their jobs, decisions they have made and family issues.

"This is an incredible thrill to be able to be in the world premiere of my own play," said Saipe. "It's an artist dream."

Writing has been a dream of Saipe's since he was a child growing up on Chicago's south side. As an undergraduate at the University of Illinois, he was the winner of the Leah F. Trelease Short-Story Writing Competition. He also wrote, directed and was the lead performer in the first-place show in the original student musical comedy competition.

He was accepted to both the University of California at Los Angeles (UCLA) and New York University's prestigious writing programs but opted for Northwest University School of Law.

"It was a practical decision," Saipe said. Saipe stayed involved with writing and performing as a hobby. He was for many years, one of the writers of, and a featured performer in, the nationally-renowned Chicago Bar Association's "Christmas Spirits" show, an annual political spoof. Saipe has performed with the show's traveling troupe throughout the country.

Saipe also writes original music and lyrics. One of his biggest musical thrills was dancing with his wife, Tarryl, at their wedding celebration while the band played the wedding song he had written for her.

In 1992, Saipe decided to listen to his heart and focus on his art. That is when he began to write, "The Point Man."

"I am able to pursue writing and acting now without having to worry about making money at it," said Saipe, who is in-house counsel for CMC Heartland Partners in Chicago, a firm with clients throughout the nation.

Saipe's wife and three children are very supportive of his work in the theatre as are his colleagues.

"It is still a bit of a novelty to colleagues who find out about my writing and acting ambitions," said Saipe. "They are intrigued to see me in a different role." Saipe's secretary is planning a group outing for colleagues to the world premiere.

Saipe became involved with Stage Two when he submitted his play for consideration to the board to produce.

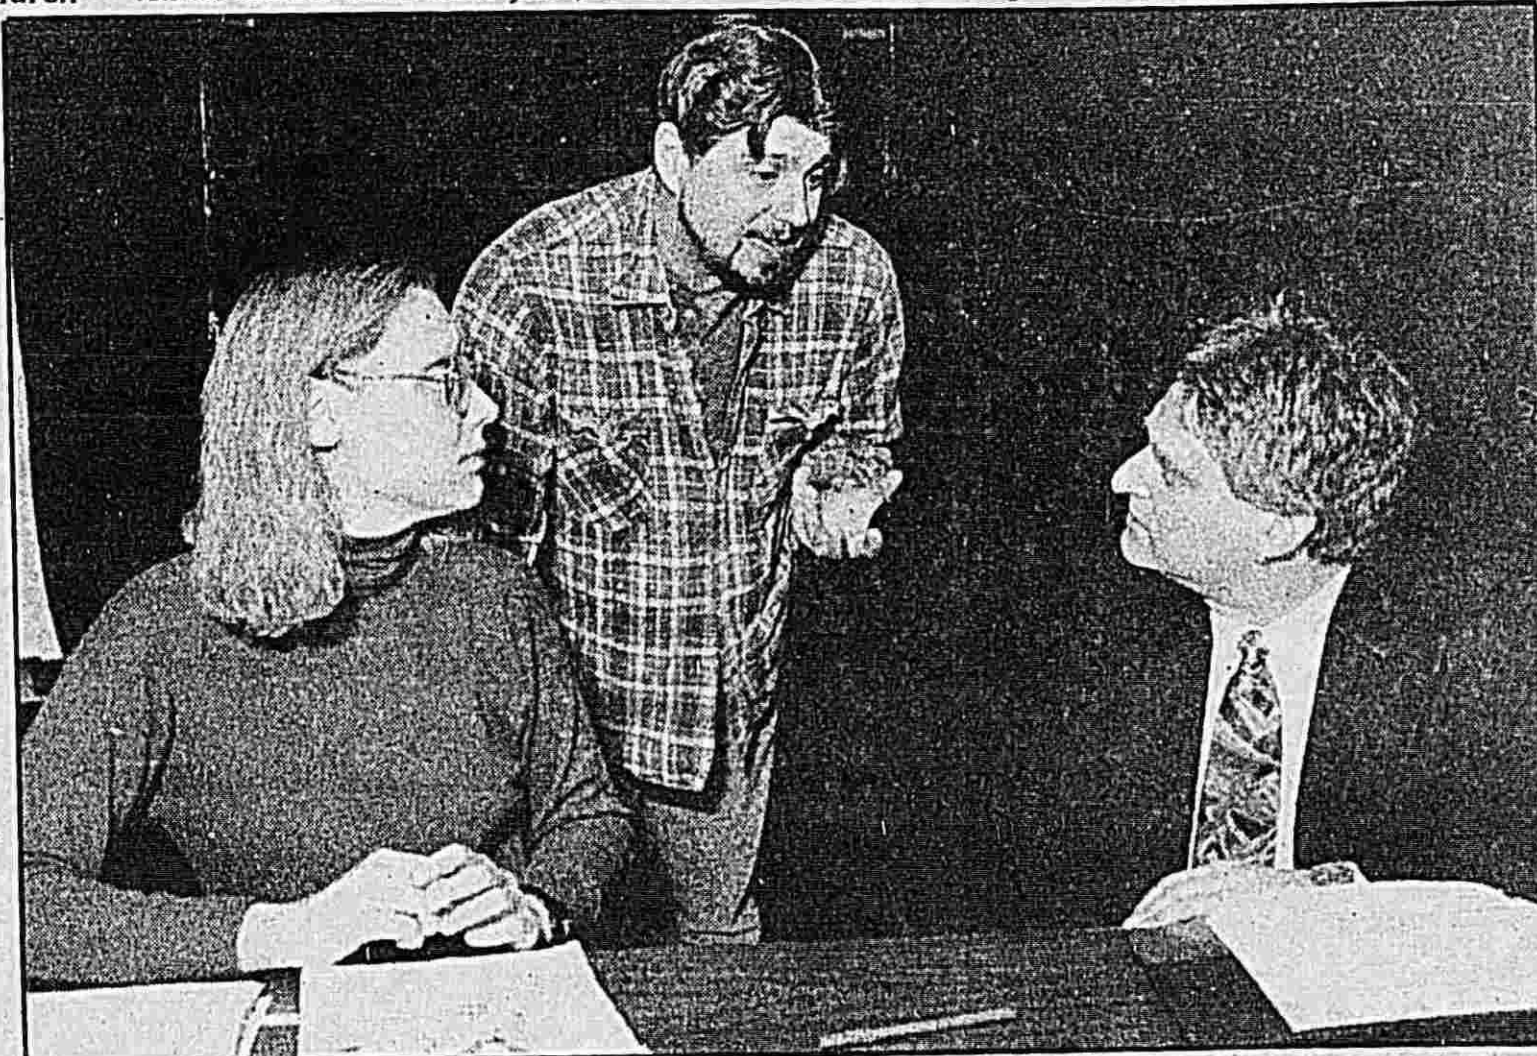

"This is an extraordinarily unique theatre which provides a forum for new work," Saipe said. "That's Eden for an actor. It's appealing to have the first crack at creating the role on stage."

Stage Two is known for its philosophy of bringing new works or under produced works to the stage. The theatre primarily produces world or midwest premieres.

"People never know exactly what they are going to see at Stage Two," said Tim Mooney, artistic director. "They have the opportunity to see something in its first go-around. It gives them the bragging rights of saying they saw it first."

Stage Two can be described as an off-off-Broadway theatre according to Mooney. Its limited 60-person seating capacity allows the audience to experience the play in a very intimate way and be connected to the actor.

"Most theatres look at new plays as suicide," said Mooney. "We feel if we continue as we have been, the public will come See STAGE page B11

Belize for divers and environmentalists

by JIM WARNKEN,
PRESIDENT, NORTH STAR TRAVEL, INC.

If you attended high school prior to 1981, you may know it as British Honduras. Belize is also the only English speaking nation in Central America.

Belize has for years attracted divers from around the world with its 175 mile long barrier reef, second in size only to the Great Barrier Reef in Australia. If the reef isn't enough, there's the mysterious "Blue Hole". This underwater cave is 1,000 feet in diameter and 480 feet deep, complete with stalagmites and stalactites.

Belize is now attracting both the environmentally-conscious tourist and those seeking an alternative to "action-oriented" destinations, such as Cancun.

For the environmentalist, Belize offers animal sanctuaries, jungle and pine-covered mountains.

Belize has set up a sanctuary for the threatened black howler monkeys. The property where this reserve is located is privately owned by farmers who have voluntarily agreed to limit the area they clear for crops and to let stand fruit trees from which the monkeys feed.

A marine preserve was set up in 1987 where fishing and coral collection is prohibited.

Other preserves include anything from a jaguar sanctuary to a butterfly breeding ground.

Belize's concern for the environment even extends to its zoo which contains only animals that have been traded from other zoos or wild animals taken as pets and no longer wanted. No wild animals are trapped for exposition.

If you're looking for discos to party the night away, you're in the wrong place. If guest houses, Spanish colonial-style cottages and small quaint hotels (with rates of less than $50 per night) are your thing, then a visit to Belize should be in your plans.

LIFE'S A BEAR

DONNA ABEAR

Little brothers as pets

I was rummaging through an old box of photographs recently, thinking I might actually get around to putting them in an album one of these days, when I came across a picture of a Siamese cat I used to have. There he was, inside my microwave oven, looking like O.J. with less comfortable surroundings. (By the way, I have to mention O.J. at least once every two weeks, or what kind of irresponsible journalist would I be?) Now, before you pick up the pen to write a letter to the paper telling them just what you think about columnists who eat cats, let me tell you that I had nothing to do with it, and that the Siamese cat was neither eaten nor cooked. I can tell you who put the cat in the microwave, though, and you can feel free to write him a letter. It was my younger brother, Frank.

Yes, Frank, who is what you could call a "free spirit," decided it might be quite humorous to put the cat in the microwave and take a picture. Of course, I knew nothing about it until the film was developed and he watched my face turn that angry shade of tomato red when I looked at the picture. At that point, he laughed and laughed, and assured me the cat was unharmed. But, I'll really never know if maybe he might have defrosted him just a little. That could explain why the cat's temperament grew progressively nastier. Frank also liked to put scotch tape on the bottom of his paws because it was "so funny how he jumps around, shaking two paws at a time, trying to get the tape off." In any case, when Frank finally moved out of my apartment, I gave him the cat for a housewarming gift, since by now the cat had the same sense of humour as Frank. You'd pet him, and after a minute or so he would bite your hand, draw blood, and then walk away (probably chuckling to himself). They made a good pair.

Not that I didn't enjoy my brother's company while he was staying with me in those days. Sometimes he would surprise me by cleaning the entire apartment from top to bottom, including the oven and the refrigerator. Or once, I came home from work to find a completely decorated, freshly-cut Christmas tree in my living room (near Christmas time, of course). So his love of surprises could be quite wonderful, too. However, free spirit that he was, Frank was in no hurry to find a job while he was staying with me, which helped to explain his tendency to use the cat for entertainment. For instance, I would come home from a hard day at work, only to find him in the same place I'd left him—battling the forces of evil on a video game. Finally, there came a point where I had to explain to him that most companies do not advertise for help on Super Mario. You have to actually read the newspaper.

Still, I have to claim some responsibility for Frank's mischievousness. Being the youngest of the family, my older brother Marty and I took many an opportunity to play little "jokes" on him. Like the time we were all swimming in the pool, and we removed Frank's swim suit and ran in the house, locking the doors behind us. There we sat, peeking out the window and laughing as poor Frank ran furtively from bush to bush trying to figure out how to get back in without being exposed. My mother spoiled the fun and made us let him in, but not before we were rolling on the floor in tears. Hoo, boy, that was funny, we thought.

Or the time we were eating pork and beans and—well, you know how there's always that little hunk of white fat in the pork and beans? Anyway, we told Frank that the fat was a bean dumpling. "Yes, Frank," we said, "we're jealous. You have the only bean dumpling on your plate. Do you want to share?" Naturally, there was no way he was going to share that bean dumpling with us, and we held our breath as he spooned it into his mouth and started to chew. His face went from smug to gaggy in no time. We laughed for 10 minutes.

So, much as I hate to admit I'm wrong, I sometimes treated my little brother about the same as he treated that cat. And I want to take this opportunity, Frank, to say I'm sorry for some of the things I did. But, not about the bean dumpling... hee, hee, hee... that was a classic!

Editor's note: The following was inadvertently omitted from last week's column.

When you get right down to it, this gentleman in The New Yorker doesn't have a leg to stand on. The meaning of the word "opinion" is "belief," not "fact." So all the survey really says is that people believe that the government spends an average of 18 percent of the budget on foreign aid. They didn't say that they know that the government spends 18 percent on foreign aid. I mean, we all believed in the Tooth Fairy once, but that doesn't mean we're idiots.

So, feel free to have an opinion, no matter what this guy in New York says. And you don't have to know all the facts first—just do what they do behind closed doors in Washington. 'Eeny, meeny, miney, moe..."

Cooking by the book Herbs finding their place

Herbs—whether plucked from a kitchen window garden, grocer's shelf or dried and stored in one's pantry—are coming into their own as an essential ingredient in the modern cook's arsenal.

The following recipe from "The Herb Companion Cooks" culls recipes from the first five years of Herb Companion Magazine. The illustrated paperback has a nice mix of appetizers, salads, soups and main-course dishes using all manner of herbs.

"Risotto With Seafood and Dill"

1 lb. shrimp
2-3 lbs. assorted bivalves in the shell, such as clams, small mussels and scallops.
1 cup dry white wine
Water
1 bunch dill
1 small onion, diced fine
1 bay leaf
1 qt. fish broth or 16 oz. bottled clam juice
3 Tbs. olive oil
2 Tbs. unsalted butter
1 small onion, chopped coarse
2 or 3 garlic cloves, minced
2 cups arborio rice
3-4 green onions, trimmed with about 4 in. green and cut in 1/2-in. lengths (optional)
Salt and freshly ground pepper, to taste
Lemon wedges (optional)
1 cup grated parmesan cheese (optional)

Shell and devein the shrimp, rinsing if necessary. Reserve the shells to enhance the broth.

Heat the other shellfish, one kind at a time, in the wine in a tightly covered pan. Remove them to a dish as they open.

Strain the shellfish liquor into a pot through a sieve lined with rinsed white paper toweling or tripled cheesecloth. Add the shrimp shells, about 2 cups of water, three or four dill sprigs, the coarsely chopped onion, bay leaf and fish broth or clam juice. Simmer about 15 minutes, then strain and measure the broth. You should have at least 2 quarts; add wine or water if necessary to equal this amount. Add salt and pepper to taste. Heat the broth to just below a simmer and keep warm.

Meanwhile, sauté the shrimp in 1 tablespoon of olive oil for about 1-1/2 minutes, or until just pink. Transfer the shrimp to the dish with the other shellfish.

Place the remaining olive oil and the butter in a large casserole that can be used on the stove, cover and sweat the diced onion and the garlic over medium-low heat. When the onion is softened, add the rice, stir well and reduce the heat. Sauté the rice gently for about 10 minutes, then stir in about 2 cups of broth. Raise the heat again to medium-low. Continue stirring the risotto and adding more broth, about 1/2 cup at a time, as soon as the previous addition of liquid has been absorbed.

Meanwhile, remove the leaves from five or six dill sprigs and chop them.

The risotto will be creamy and rice al dente when it is done, in 16 to 20 minutes. (We found it took about 35 minutes.) Two or three minutes before this point, stir in the bivalves, then the shrimp, chopped dill and green onions, if desired. When the dish is heated through, remove it from the heat and add salt and pepper. If the risotto is too thick, add more hot broth. Makes six servings. Serve immediately. Pass lemon wedges and cheese, if desired.—by TOM WITOM

Dynamite cast saves 'Just Cause'

When you have a murder mystery full of holes that the writers either forgot or couldn't fill, make sure that you get a strong cast and you just might end up with a palatable film. That's what seems to have happened in "Just Cause," Sean Connery's newest flick.

The plot has "L.A. Law's" Blair Underwood about to be executed for murder and rape, when law professor Connery, who is a rabid anti-death penalty advocate, decides to step in.

Laurence Fishburne, plays a cop who likes to send people to the electric chair, and the surprise of the picture, Ed Harris, plays a maniacal murderer.

Harris' interpretation of an insane killer steals the movie and ever since Connery learned that he wasn't Agent 007, he has become one of the best actors on any screen. No matter how bad a script, Connery is always good.

Fishburne and Harris both are dutifully hateful, and do a first-rate job with their roles.

The movie is set in the Florida Everglades and the location should also be listed among the picture's assets.

Kate Capshaw, as Connery's wife, and Ruby Dee as Underwood's grandmother, who are both instrumental in getting Connery into the case, cap off this first rate cast.

Jeb Stuart and Peter Stone, the writers who did the screen play based on the book by John Katzenbach, that the movie is based on, lost their way several times in this one, but they saved all their ammunition for a big blast at the end which turns out to be plot twist after plot twist, that doesn't really add to the movie like some surprise endings do.

Laurence Fishburne, left, a hard-assed cop, gives Sean Connery - a Harvard law professor headed back to the court room for the first time in years - a hard time. The plot illustrates the ins and outs of Connery's efforts to save Blair Underwood for being executed for an eight-year-old rape and murder.

This cast is so good that their performances almost erase the story's faults, but not quite.

We give "Cause" 3.5 out of five stars. It carries an R-rating.

If you love Connery like we do, you might even be willing to spend the $7 big screen price instead of waiting to see it on video. —by GLORIA DAVIS

Easing Your Tax Burden

Earned income credit— More money for more people

Would your family like to have a bigger refund check this year? If the answer is yes, I have some good news for you in this week's column.

For nearly two decades, the Earned Income Tax Credit (EITC) has rewarded millions of hard-working, low and moderate income families. Last year alone, EITC helped some 15 million married couples and single parents to make ends meet.

As a tax credit, EITC is a dollar-for-dollar reduction of your taxes. Also, unlike most other tax breaks, you can even get EITC if you owe no federal tax, and if no tax was taken out of your paycheck.

EITC was expanded for 1994. It is now available if you earned less than $25,296 and had two or more qualifying children, or less than $23,755 with one qualifying child. The credit varies depending upon your income and the number of qualifying children. The maximum credit is $2,528. The highest amount goes to working families whose incomes are between

New for 1994, workers without qualifying children can now get EITC of up to $306. They must earn less than $9,000, be between the ages of 25 and 65, and cannot be claimed as someone's dependent.

EITC is also easier to figure. Schedule EIC, which must be attached to your return, was reduced from a full two pages long to nine lines. So how valuable is the Earned Income Tax Credit? Consider the following situation—one which is pretty common these days. Michael is a single parent who has one child living with him. He works full time and earned $15,125, his only income in 1994. He can claim EITC of $1,379. Like most who take EITC, in EITC, you can have your employer include part of the credit in each paycheck. The Advance EITC can boost your take-home pay by as much as $105 per month.

You can ask your employer to make these advance payments by filling out Form W-5, "Earned Income Credit Advance Payment Certificate."

This form, which is only four lines long, is available from your employer or by calling the IRS toll-free 1(800)829-3676. Advance EITC is not available to those without qualifying dependents.

The Earned Income Tax Credit has become increasingly generous in recent years, and will be expanded this example Michael is claiming his entire 1994 credit at the end of the year as part of his refund.

But most eligible families don't need to wait that long to collect their 1995 credit. Through the Advance even more in the future. But like so many good things, EITC's success has brought with it some disturbing problems. With big refunds as lure, unscrupulous people are trying to spoil this worthwhile program by making phony EITC claims for those who are not eligible.

The IRS is stepping up its efforts to ferret out those trying to beat the system, while ensuring that those who are truly eligible get the credit. Among other things, we will be delaying refunds for returns lacking valid social security numbers. So before you file your return, make sure every member of your family born before 1994, especially dependent children, has a valid social security number. To apply for a social security number or resolve questions about one you already have, contact your local Social Security office.

While some people try to cheat the system, there are, unfortunately, thousands of other families who miss out because they fail to file tax returns. Generally, the law does not require people with low incomes to file. But even if you don't have a file, you should file if you qualify for EITC.

Your federal tax package has a lot of good information on the EITC, including worksheets to help you determine if you're eligible and help you figure the credit. The IRS also has a booklet on the EITC. To get your free copy, call toll-free 1(800)829-3676 and ask for Publication 596, "Earned Income Credit."—by MARILYN DAY, district director, Internal Revenue Service, Chicago Dist.

Get an old-fashioned
 Chicago dog at J.D.'s Dogs

At the end of May, 1994, J.D.'s Dogs owned by Joe Fedro arrived in Gurnee, giving area residents a great place to go for old-fashioned Vienna "Chicago" hot dogs and more.

J.D.'s Dogs makes their own soup, chili, and salads, along with the beef for their delicious Italian beef and BBQ beef sandwiches. They use top quality sausages, and their hamburgers are one of the largest at 1/3-pound and most reasonably priced in the area.

J.D.'s Dogs' menu also features shrimp, fresh cut fries, hot sandwiches including those mentioned above in addition to Italian sausage, charbroiled and BBQ chicken sandwiches; cold ham, turkey, and tuna salad sandwiches; onion rings, tamales, mozzarella sticks, pizza puffs, and a variety of salads, soups, and beverages; and more.

At J.D.'s Dogs, you can enjoy your delicious food surrounded by a variety of Chicago sports themed art against white tile with black and red trimmed walls. Fedro is constantly updating and adding to the sports decorations at J.D.'s Dogs.

Fedro is no stranger to the food business, and has spent the past 18 years working at Nick's Fish Market, a well-known and popular eatery in Chicago. Fedro realized that Gurnee was in need of an old-fashioned hot dog stand-type restaurant, and moved from Chicago to venture out on his own.

J.D.'s Dogs is located at 5101 Washington St. in Saratoga Square, 263-0900. Hours are Monday through Saturday, 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. J.D.'s Dogs is closed Sunday.

Meditation classes are also offered weekly at the Fox Lake Community Center. People of all ages and walks of life come for varied reasons. Meditation offers opportunities for relaxation, discipline, personal growth and spiritual awareness. Effects are positive psychologically as well as physiologically, emotionally as well as mentally, socially as well as spiritually. Classes offer an opportunity to learn and practice varied styles and techniques to suit individual personalities, wants and needs.

Personal Counseling is offered by appointment dealing with a wide range of personal/spiritual issues. Sliding scale is available.

Understanding eating disorders

Women have long held a love-hate relationship with food and, consequently, their bodies. Women have made many advancements and accomplishments, but their self-esteem and self-worth is still affected by their weight. This pressure—along with society's demands and personal expectations—influences the development of eating disorders.

Let me give you a few examples. The most severe eating disorder is anorexia nervosa. Take someone like Lisa, a 15-year-old who gets straight A's. She's a perfectionist in her dress and appearance.

Lisa, however, is excessively preoccupied with food and exercise. She consumes a daily diet of rice cakes, yogurt and dry cereal, coffee, diet drinks and occasionally popcorn. Obsessive behavior accompanies this diet. She chews each morsel 12 times, fixates on a daily goal of exactly 475 calories and eats out of a special bowl.

Lisa is severely below the average weight of 100 pounds for her five-foot frame, yet she calls herself a blimp as she grabs her lean thigh. She no longer has her menses and, since her body fat is so low, always feels chilly.

Unlike Lisa, Jane is bulimic. Although she appears to be of average weight, her eating habits include secretly consuming large quantities of junk food: ice cream, cake and cookies. In this ritual, Jane eats frantically, with little chewing, and keeps doing it until her stomach hurts. This behavior is called bingeing. In bulimics, it's always accompanied by the related phenomenon of purging.

Talk deals with partner confrontation

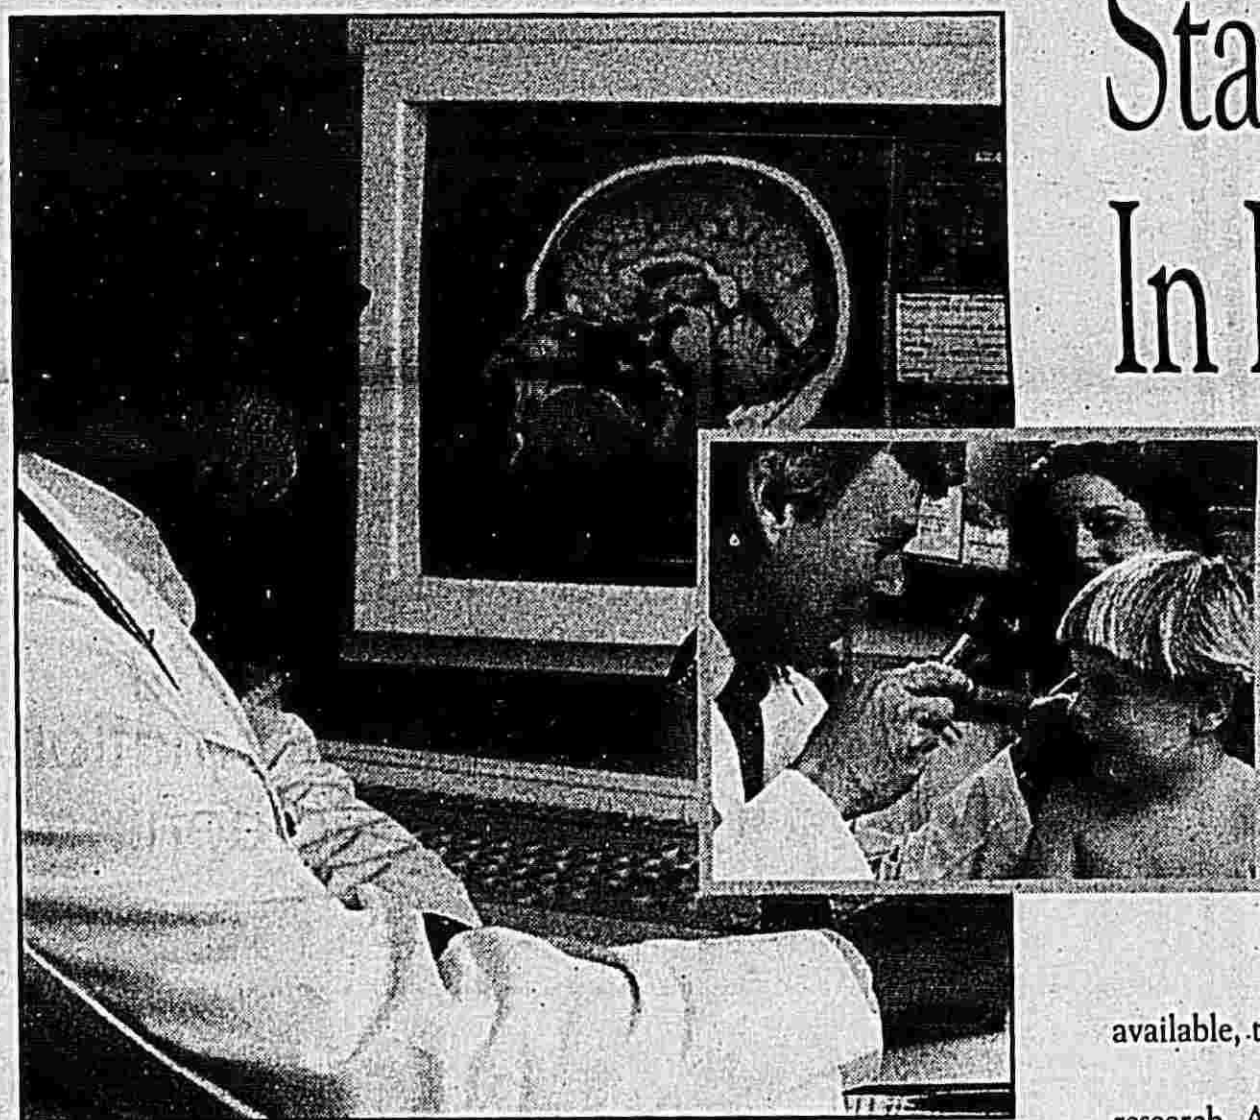

The next presentation in the ongoing Life Skills Series at St. Therese Medical Center is titled, "Stand Up for Yourself! An Intro to Assertiveness Training." Gail Purdy, Ph.D., staff psychologist at St. Therese, will present this program March 8 from 7 to 8 p.m.

Confrontation: Some people handle it immediately. Some avoid it at all costs. Some become so aggressive there's no chance for real communication. Join Dr. Gail J. Purdy, clinical psychologist, as she discusses a method of determining the communication styles used when confronting partners.

Purdy believes "by understanding ourselves in relationships, we can make changes that improve ourselves, our relationships and our lives." The program, as well as the parking, are free of charge. For more information on this lecture, call St. Therese Ask-A-Nurse at 244-5900.

Advisory committee recommends manic treatment drug

The Psychopharmacologic Drugs Advisory Committee recommended approval of Divalproex sodium tablets for the treatment of manic episodes of bipolar disorder, also known as manic-depressive illness. Divalproex sodium would be the first new treatment for manic episodes of bipolar disorder since the introduction of lithium 25 years ago.

Divalproex sodium has been evaluated for up to a 21-day course of therapy in the treatment of manic episodes.

The Advisory Committee found that the evidence provided from Abbott's well-controlled clinical trials was sufficient to conclude that Divalproex sodium is safe and effective for the treatment of manic episodes of bipolar disorder.

More than 2 million Americans suffer from manic-depressive illness, a chronic, cyclic disease that involves wide mood swings and cycles of mania and depression. While the causes of manic-depressive illness are not fully understood, it is believed that genetic, biochemical and environmental factors can each play a role.

In the manic phase of bipolar illness, symptoms can include abnormally elevated mood, hyperactivity, explosive temper, impaired judgment, insomnia, grandiosity, hypersexuality and delusions.

"This can result in loss of employment, alienation of friends and family, reckless behavior, including promiscuity and excessive spending, and can require hospitalization to prevent harm to oneself or to others," said Charles Bowden, M.D., head of the Division of Biological Psychiatry, University of Texas Health Science Center, San Antonio, lead investigator, and an author of "Efficacy of Divalproex vs. Lithium and Placebo in the Treatment of Mania," published in the Journal of the American Medical Association last March. "For those who are affected by manic-depressive illness, Divalproex sodium offers a new alternative to manage the disease."

It is estimated that two-thirds of people with bipolar disorder do not receive treatment.

Eye bank celebrates donor awareness month

Since 1983, March has been designated National Eye Donor Awareness Month by act of Congress. This year, the Illinois Eye-Bank marks the occasion by urging everyone to recognize the importance of the gift of sight by signing the back of their driver's licenses or to carrying an eye donor card. During 1994, the Eye-Bank provided eye tissue for 1,064 surgical procedures, making vision possible for hundreds of people throughout the state.

"Eye Donor Awareness Month alerts the public to the importance of donation," said Dorothy Baker, administrator of the Illinois Eye-Bank. "Recipients of corneal and tissue transplants are forever grateful for this precious gift. Seeing a loved one's face and watching your children play are treasures beyond price."

According to the Illinois Eye-Bank, the need for donated corneas in Illinois is rising and even larger number of donors will be needed in the future. For more information about Eye Donor Awareness Month, call the Illinois Eye-Bank at 800/548-4703.

Classes offered for new parents

The New Family Center at Victory Memorial Hospital will present a class designed to prepare expectant parents for the childbirth experience.

The class will be held at 7 p.m. beginning Thursday, March 9, at the hospital, 1324 N. Sheridan Rd., Waukegan, and will meet at the same time and place for five consecutive weeks.

There is a $30 fee. Upon successful completion of the class, a certificate will be awarded which allows the support person to be present during the baby's birth, with approval of the attending doctor. Class size is limited, so register early during the first three months of pregnancy. Call the center at 360-4121 Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 3:30 p.m.

Health

To deal with the physical pain, remorse and fear of becoming fat, Jane makes herself throw up and takes laxatives and diuretics. Her behavior has created medical problems, mood swings, low self-esteem and feelings of helplessness in Jane. Another symptom is impulsive, self-destructive behavior. So out of control is Jane that she was recently caught by the police for shoplifting. Her erratic impulsiveness is a desperate, but ineffective, attempt to manage her life.

Mary is like Jane because she binges, but dissimilar because she does not purge. Consequently, Mary is obese. Born into a family that demonstrates love through food, she's been overweight since she was a child. Mary has learned to turn to food when lonely or sad, angry or happy, bored or anxious. Food serves as a reliable friend and pacifier, but in the end Mary feels unhappy, unloved and empty.

What links Lisa, Jane and Mary is a complex misuse or abuse of food. Each uses food to exercise control and deal with her feelings. As a consequence, food has become everything from a career to a best friend.

Because of this, most superficial attempts to deal with the problems are doomed to fail. The idea of removing a disorder feels threatening, like a forced change. It would mean taking away from Lisa, Mary or Jane a key focus of their life.

So what can help them? There are a few areas to concentrate on. First, in severe cases, medical intervention is imperative. Some eating disorders can be deadly if left untreated.

With anorexic adolescents like Lisa, it's important to look at the whole family system: parental behavior—a distant father and an overly involved, demanding mother, for example, can be contributing to Lisa's problems. Lisa and her parents may need family therapy.

As I said above, emotions are involved in eating disorders. Jane should think about what she's feeling before she reaches for that bag of chips. If you are lonely, bored or angry, call a friend, read a book, or confront your co-workers. These steps will address your emotional state better than food.

Next, women should take a realistic look at the sources of their power and control. Taking on a new job, furthering their education, or doing volunteer work can bring competence and purpose to their lives by expanding their choices and control.

Finally, relationships are very important to women's overall well-being, particularly for those who are struggling with eating disorders. Support groups can reduce isolation, boost self-esteem and foster new relationships.

Editor's note: Linda Millon, Psy.D., a licensed clinical psychologist, developed the women's program at Condell Medical Center. She is the clinical director of the Women's Circle of Health, part of Neuropsych, a group practice in Libertyville. The Circle can be reached at 367-1029.

Unhappy finish

Before and after the subdivision in Wauconda was under construction, the people of Wauconda, especially the people of Brown Street (whose property backed up to Country Ridge), were told at various village board meetings the 100-year-old oak trees that were on that property would be saved. Also, that the houses, though newer, would blend well with the newer homes, and that Brown Street at the north end would remain a dead-end street, a cul-de-sac at most. Well, with construction almost completed, if there's any oak left in Country Ridge, it's burning in someone's fireplace. The blending of new homes to older homes hasn't worked well, either, as untested flood repairs in-between both properties linger. There are still utility poles separating both new and old properties that are very unsightly.

Missed the boat

The person who called to complain about the Slocum Lake management meetings, really missed the boat. He obviously doesn't understand that you can't fix something unless you know why it's broken. At the meetings I've attended, I've heard people define the actual water shed, talk about managing storm water for pollution control, and describe erosion control practices, among other things. The people have a right to complain about flooding. The officials deny that it's even happening. The flood waters flow over our saturated septic systems and then directly into the lake. The caller doesn't want to hear about that, though. You can't just drain a lake and put in clean water. This is not a bathtub. To clean a lake, you have to understand what causes the problems.

Praise Grayslake

Since Lipservice is full of comments on schools, especially the Round Lake school strike, I want to say something positive. A big thank you is due to the Grayslake teachers from 1963 to 1975. Not once did I miss classes due to a strike. These dedicated instructors made school a joy. They had their priorities straight.

Go for the gold

Spring Grove School does need to have a consistent curriculum. Right now, one grade has no challenges, and then they go into a grade that does challenge them. The kids become frustrated and don't understand what's happening. The curriculum is for the average child only and has no room for challenging anyone or helping those who need it. No wonder they are all proud about their average scores. Reach for the gold, not the bronze!

Learning by example

If parents are rude and disrespectful toward other adults, how do they expect their children to grow into caring and responsible adults, toward them and anyone else?

Let's be fair

Wauconda, let's be fair! Citizen's Choice Party sent out letters for donations. I got one in the mail. They're having a fundraiser at a local restaurant. So, what's the big deal if the Unified Party of Wauconda is doing the same thing? Trustee Kristofson and Stanger are running the campaign for the Citizen's Choice party. Our mayor and former mayor are backing the Unified ticket. Maybe the reason the two mayors are backing a certain ticket is because they know who is qualified. About the dog and pony show, Bess has the horse farm. Maybe you got the wrong party.

Think before voting

Attention voters who live in the village of Wauconda. If you vote for the Citizen's Choice party in the upcoming election, you will be voting not for the village services and needs, but for the selfish wants of a specific group who want horse trails paid for by us for the township residents. Think before you cast your vote.

The right decision

I'm responding to a request from a parent asking about the Fox Lake schools. I, too, was new to the area a year-and-a-half ago and brought three children into the Fox Lake school district. I was also concerned because I had heard mixed opinions about our school district. I'd like to say that you have absolutely no worries in the world. Your kids are in great hands. I have a handicapped student. In a normal classroom setting in the past year, they've given her a full-time aide with a bachelor's degree, all kinds of therapy, and an incredible education. I had a daughter in sixth grade who was capable of doing eighth grade math. They set up a special person to come in to help her and the others get ahead in eighth grade math. My fourth grade son is in Mrs. Dorie's classroom, which right now has become a tropical rain forest. She's won many awards for being creative with her curriculum. This is very indicative of how wonderful the teaching staff is at these schools. And the administrative staff, principals, and superintendent work marvelously with all of the parents on any needs their children may have. I think you did a great thing moving to this town and your kids will love the schools.

Frightening facts

As a homeowner and taxpayer in District 34 and 117, I am very concerned about the Lake Villa Unit School District proposal. Dr. Dan Burke and Dr. Don Skidmore from District 34 have made it perfectly clear what will happen to District 34 in the event that the Lake Villa Unit School District is passed. The facts are frightening. This will do irreparable damage to District 34. Now, what I would like to know is, what will happen to District 117? We only have hearsay to go on. I wish the administration from District 117 would let us know the facts. As a taxpayer, I have the right to know what the division of assets will be. We need to be informed before we can go to the polls and vote.

We deserve better

Mayor Baumunk's record of broken campaign promises, coverups, and mismanagement will go unchallenged in the April, 1995 municipal election. The residents of Lindenhurst deserve better leadership and a better person to be their mayor.

You can control TV

I'm responding to the comments of 'What's going on?' in the Feb. 24 Lipservice. They complained about the Spanish channel and a woman with a thong dancing. I'd like to say to that person you should control what your kids watch. The cable company shouldn't be taking off programming because of your kids. You can control it by putting a parental lock on that channel. It's easy to do.

Where are you?

Best Committee, where are you? Taxes for the entire Antioch, Lake Villa, Lindenhurst area are going up big time, and we haven't heard a word from you people. Antioch is raising 26-percent, Lake Villa 42-percent if the Unit District passes. Open up your mouths and speak. You have on past referendums.

Redirect air traffic

We have a friend who lives in Chicago and he never hears any airplane traffic. That shouldn't surprise you since Chicago more or less controls the airport and traffic, so they send all the airplanes and noise out into the suburbs. I think it's time to contact your representatives in Washington and the FAA and say this is not fair. If there's going to be an increase in traffic, it should be in all areas of the city and controlled. People should be able to sleep at night.

School district wrong?

I'm calling because I have a couple of questions regarding the Lake Villa School District that don't seem to be getting addressed. Maybe four or five years ago, Antioch was whining about how small the school was and how students were being crammed in. They were looking into building a new school because they couldn't add on anymore. Why, all of a sudden, is it so wrong to build a school district in Lake Villa? The growth of houses in the area is severely outpacing the growth of any sort of business tax base. The myth of building more houses to bring the tax base down doesn't work. There's a serious problem in the way schools are being funded. Remember the lottery? That was supposed to help schools, but doesn't. Gambling isn't going to do it either. Wake up, people!

Afraid for jobs

It seems like Antioch schools are a little afraid that their residents may wake up and realize that once Lake Villa goes to a unit, Antioch can go to a unit, therefore saving a lot of administrative costs of going from two administrations to one. Perhaps that's the real reason that Antioch's administration is against the unit, they're afraid of their jobs. I wonder why they're giving out so much misinformation and their figures are so inflated? I wonder what they're so afraid of? I guess it's their jobs.

Upset about mail

I have a major complaint with the Grayslake post office. At least once a week, I am getting other people's mail. This makes me nervous because there's other people getting my bills and important things. It doesn't seem that there's anything being done about it. It's just getting worse. I'm very upset.

Conflict of interest

I'm calling from the Fox Lake area regarding a recent article I saw in the newspaper concerning Dr. Dam's consideration or purchase of a marina in the Fox Lake area and the conflict of interest that seems to have arisen. A couple of names were mentioned, including the former Waterway Management Agent Judy Martini.

She should know

There was a question of why has the Gang of 10 refused to present facts and figures to Lake Villa Assessor Kathleen Kane? She is such a righteous assessor and has been in that office for umpteenth years. Why should anyone in that office have to present her with anything? She, in fact, as assessor, should know what this is going to cost each and every homeowner in this township.

Student speaks out

Antloch really seems to care about their kids' futures, huh? Wrong! It makes me sick. I'm sick and tired of the children of Antloch being treated like dirt. I'm a student at Antloch and we have no money, no books, and no teachers. What I mean is that our school is completely overcrowded. We now have turn signals to get to the other side of the hallway. This has to stop. I'm sick and tired of being abused by the people that refuse to pay taxes. Come on, people, it's only 30-cents for your kids' education and future. It just doesn't affect parents and children, it affects the community and its future.

Give us facts

Amen, amen, amen. Let's hear from the Gang of 10. Give us the facts and figures so we can take note. Before we have to cast our vote!

Break the spell

The committee of 10 promoting the unit district would like to create a new life. They want to take parts of school bodies and create a new one controlled by them. I seem to recall a doctor of dual identity trying this and he ended up with a Frankenstein. Get the picture? This spooky crew has mixed ego with misinformation, libelous remarks about Millburn school, and half-baked dreams in a full caldron that's now at full boil. They'd like to serve up a rich dish to taxpayers of Lake Villa, Lindenhurst, Antloch, and Millburn areas. They have magically disguised the truth about taxes and more to make it all palatable. Do they think us also mad? Break the spell and vote no to the Unit District April 4. Get the facts from Mr. Gonwa, regional superintendent, March 13 at 7 p.m., Millburn School.

In this together

Regarding Lipservice dated Feb. 24 entitled 'Get out and vote.' Dear single, unmarried, and shortsighted. In answer to your query, why do I and senior citizens have to pay for school taxes? Though your question doesn't reflect it, you probably got an education somewhere at the expense of singles and senior citizens. Get real! We're all in this together and we all need to help pay or we all will pay. Get it?

Rude drivers

I've lived in the Round Lake area for the past 40 years. I'd like to complain about the driving habits of the drivers in the area. A yellow light used to mean slow down and stop. Now it means go faster. Red means just a few more cars can go through. There's no courtesy on the road. People are constantly pulling out in front of you and flipping you off when they're the ones at fault. They keep putting more lights in the area. The stoplights have tripled. They're building and building and the roads are just going to get worse. I feel that if we all slow down and allow ourselves a little more time and start thinking about safety other than 'I only have a few minutes to get there', we'd all be better drivers.

Good vibrations?

Are those homeowners on Federal Parkway crazy to let that happen to their front yards? If so, did they have a choice? I would never have let that happen to my front yard. What a total mess! I feel the vibration all the way down the street. I can't imagine living in those two houses. They must have one giant headache after another. I hope it's over soon for their sake. Good luck. After all, it will help Lindenhurst's sewer system, won't it?

There's worse things

Last week someone complained about Spanish stations on cable. Hey, pal, you thought you lived in America? So did the Indians before they were slaughtered and cheated out of the land they had for thousands of years. You're upset about a girl dancing in a thong? What's your opinion about the American soap operas and cop shows that show people wearing a lot less and doing a lot more than dancing. I don't speak Spanish, but I have my choice of about 80 other channels. Wake up, we're all part of the human race. Our blood is all red and our hearts beat the same.

Lost a professional

Ex-chief Policky of Hainesville is a man of proven high integrity and a profound sense of responsibility. His integrity would prevent him from fixing tickets and his sense of responsibility would have him accept any impropriety of this department. Not only has Hainesville lost a professional of his caliber, but the Round Lake community as well.

Resigning habit

What's all the surprise about Gene Kelly resigning from the police department? Doesn't anybody realize that since 1988, this guy has worked for police departments in Round Lake, Round Lake Heights, and Round Lake Park, not to mention used to work for the Park District Police and a large private security firm in Lake County. The man has had at least four different jobs in the past seven years and everybody's surprised that he resigned? He resigns every time the pressure is on. I think someone ought to check the department statistics as far as crime being up and production down before they start throwing accolades to Mr. Kelly. I say good riddance!

Roofing company gets award

LAKE ZURICH—All American Roofing, Inc. has been named a recipient of the 1995 Firestone Master Contractor Award. This prestigious award is presented annually by Firestone Building Products Co., Carmel, Ind., to the company's top licensed commercial roofing contractors in its five U.S. sales regions, Canada and Europe. Firestone projects installed by All American Roofing, Lake Zurich, Ill., in 1994 include Super K-mart, Broadview, Ill.; Super K-mart, Round Lake Beach, Ill.; and Walter R. Executives leave Kemper

LONG GROVE—Kemper has announced the resignation of three top executives from Kemper Financial and Kemper Corp. A reason for their departure was not disclosed. Gone are Charles M. Kierscht, executive vice president of Kemper Corp. and chairman and chief executive officer of Kemper Financial; Sandy Lincoln, senior vice president and chief investment officer of Kemper Financial and Robert T. Jackson, executive vice president of Kemper Corp. and senior executive vice president of Kemper Financial. Kemper denied management was attempting a leveraged buyout after the company's planned merger with Conseco, Inc. failed last year.

Chamber supports area code

GURNEE—The board of directors of the Lake County Chamber of Commerce is supporting the adoption of an overlay for the new 630 area code. The overlay would be in contrast to another option which would create a geographic split and force some existing customers to convert to the new area code. The Chamber felt the cost of converting to a new area code, just five years after the expense of millions of dollars incurred by private industry when the 708 area code was created, would not be proper with the continuing growth expected in the county. The overlay proposal would assign 630 area codes to new numbers coming on line with no respect to geographic location within the 708 area code. The proposal for a 2-way geographic split would convert most of Lake County to the 630 area code.

Cord escapes hibernation for auto show

Greg Grams, 44, co-owner of the Volo Antique Auto Museum with his brother Bill, 52, wanted an extraordinary auto for their guest exhibit at the Chicago Auto Show. He toured the museum's three buildings and decided upon a 1931 Cord Cabriolet L-29 that had never been outside the museum in 18 years and had never been started in all that time.

Greg assigned the Cord's historical debut to his sons, Jay, 25, and Brian, 18, who work full time with their father in the auto museum.

Jay was just seven years old, and Brian was just born when the Cord came to the museum 18 years ago. Their dad told them he drained out all of the Cord's fluids then. The car was not to be driven to preserve the original 13,000 miles on it. The car is a rare classic, valued at $300,000, and their father turned down many tempting offers for it. It is still not for sale.

"It was a very exciting assignment for both my brother and myself to get this 64-year-old car ready for such an important show. On Jan. 26 we replaced all fluids and put in a new battery. I got into the driver's seat, turned the electric starter, and with about a minute's cranking, it fired and kept running," Jay said.

They let it warm up for a few minutes, then drove it out of the museum for a test run on the snow-packed, gravel roads around the 26-acre complex. In Jay's estimation, the performance was amazing. The brakes, transmission, gauges—everything was remarkable.

When Jay arrived back at the museum, a group of visitors and employees were cheering. Then Brian took his turn at driving it, going up and down the mile-long, paved road that runs by the complex. They agreed that was enough of a test for a car that had not even been started in 18 years and Brian drove it into the detailing shop.

"We spent two days grooming it for the show. The black mirror finish and silver trim were gleaming perfection and the sidewalls were pure white. It was ready for the big show," Jay said.

After the Chicago Auto Show, the Cord was returned to the $1-million Volo Antique Auto Museum collection to join two more rare Cords. A 1936 maroon Cord Phaeton, valued at over $75,000, and a dark blue 1931 L-29 Cord, valued at over $100,000.

This rare 1931 Cord Cabriolet was brought out of an 18-year hibernation to attend the Chicago Auto Show. After the show, it returned to the Volo Antique Auto Museum where it will remain on display.

Lake Forest Hospital completes link to Rush

NEAL TUCKER

Staff Reporter

After 18 months of planning and a year of negotiations, Lake Forest Hospital has announced a corporate affiliation with Rush-Presbyterian St. Luke's Medical Center of Chicago.

"This is an opportunity to participate in all academic protocols for treatment. The benefit of their teaching and research will also be transferred to the local hospital," said William G. Ries, president of Lake Forest Hospital.

The agreement calls for the creation of a new not-for-profit corporation named Lake Forest/Rush Health Care System, Inc., which will include representation from both institutions.

Lake Forest will remain the sole Lake County regional health care provider in the Rush System for Health and will become a primary provider for Rush Prudential Health Plans, making it the system's hospital of choice in the far northern suburbs.

Ries said the deal provides only benefits for Lake Forest Hospital while giving Rush a quality 'northern outpost' in a sense.

Lake Forest retains autonomy by setting up a separate 10-member set of directors to act a liaison between the two entities.

The group of directors will be comprised of five people appointed by Rush and three appointed by LFH in addition to each president sitting on the board. Each hospital will retain its own board of directors as well.

According to Ries, the main benefit coming directly to LFH is two-pronged:

First, the hospital will be able to take advantage of Rush's world-leadership in cancer research technology and treatment.

Two, the hospital position will be greatly enhanced in the area of managed care since it joins the Rush network, which now includes eight affiliated hospitals throughout Chicagoland.

In practical terms, the Rush affiliation is necessary because of market forces driving employee benefits toward institutions who are best suited to offer managed care, which are better known as HMOs of PPOs. As a single entity, LFH could not offer the range of services and physician choices needed to attract exclusive contracts such as HMOs.

With the new affiliation, the hospital has the strong backing of one of the most respected institutions in the world as well as the six other hospitals spread logically throughout the greater metropolitan area.

With the affiliation, Ries feels the hospital moved at the right time to help buffer the changes coming to the volatile health market.

Health reform from the consumer generated standpoint will not go away.

"This affiliation will be a stabilizing force for the hospital in the future," Ries said.

Fox Lake will finally get a taste of the movies first hand with the opening of the Fox Lake Theater in Lakeland Plaza at Rollins Rd. and Grand Ave.. With a completion date set for June, Classic Cinema complex has five screens and will seat over 1,000 people. Fox Lake gets theater complex

By turning his shovel of dirt, Mayor Ken Hamsher brought good news to the residents of Fox Lake. Flanked by village trustees, members of the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce and Dwight Yackley, owner and developer of Lakeland Plaza, Mayor Hamsher welcomed Willis and Shirley Johnson, owners of Classic Cinemas, to Fox Lake.

The ground breaking is the first step in opening the new Fox Lake Theatre. When completed in June, Fox Lake Theatre will have five screens with seating for over 1,000 people. In discussing the new theater, Willis Johnson said, "We are looking forward to becoming a part of the community in Fox Lake. Our theater will provide first-run feature films. We strive to provide the best experience possible and our motto is, "Where movie going is still fun and affordable." Patrons can expect new comfortable seats, large screens and all auditoriums are equipped with Dolby stereo."

Dwight Yackley stated, "It is our long-term goal to build Lakeland Plaza into a vibrant community center, featuring merchandise, services and entertainment for the entire community. Fox Lake Theatre provides Lakeland Plaza with a cornerstone toward our goal."

Allen Sturges, president of the Fox Lake Chamber of Commerce, said, "On behalf of the Chamber membership, we welcome Shirley and Willis to Fox Lake. Fox Lake Theatre will provide entertainment for us all."

Classic Cinemas operates 14 other theaters, with 49 screens throughout northern Illinois. Hamsher noted, "In addition to having our new theatre here in Fox Lake, I am especially pleased to have people such as Willis and Shirley involved. I believe they understand communities such as Fox Lake, and are willing to invest in our community."

Addressing common expectations

Several times a week I get questions regarding some of the more common aspects of the real estate transaction. I thought we might address these often asked questions to help alleviate some confusion.

Question 1: As a buyer or seller, do I really need an attorney at closing?

Different states have different procedures and requirements.

In Illinois, we commonly use a title company to search the records of ownership. To insure clear title to the property, we still employ a real estate attorney to review the documentation. On behalf of the buyer, the attorney will review the title report and survey for problems that concern easements, building lines and possible restrictions that affect your ownership.

The attorney will review the plat of survey and for encroachments and point out set back lines and easements. An "encroachment" is when a building or some portion of it, like a fence or a wall extends beyond the land, and illegally intrudes upon an adjoining piece of property.

The attorney will also address problems with possession and the condition of the property. One of the more common problems we have in a closing is when the seller will be out and when the new buyer can move in.

As a buyer, having the attorney explain lender's charges and requirements will provide a clearer understanding of what exactly you are paying. Checking the documents from the lender to be sure you will bring enough money to the closing is imperative, as the lender will require a certified cashier's check for the amount. Since that figure is called in just hours before the closing is to take place, you will want a trained professional to review the figures to avoid a shortage at closing. The attorney will also review the various closing statements which determine how the funds are being disbursed at closing. This legal counseling can only be done by your attorney, and cannot be done by your real estate broker.

Question 2: As a seller, do I need to be there for the closing?

Often times the seller cannot be at the closing. If your move is out of state, you may not be able to attend the closing. The documentation can be express mailed to the sellers and executed at a different location. The attorney can handle the closing procedure for you and forward your funds to your new destination.

Things to be aware of are the differences from state to state on the wiring or other transfer of funds. Some banks require a waiting period of three or four days even when the funds that are received are certified. Take care to coordinate your closing at your new destination with these factors in mind. You may execute a "Power of Attorney" naming your attorney as your "attorney-in-fact", but there are still limitations as to the attorney's ability to execute certain documents. There are many details for the seller that must be very carefully handled, such as the payoff of the existing mortgage, the payment of taxes not yet billed, and the many minor reports that will require payment at the closing. Having an attorney handle these details for you really makes the hectic chore of moving much easier and safer for you.

Moves you can still make to help cut your 1994 tax bill

If you are like most Americans, this is the time of year when tax papers fill your desk and worries fill your mind. With 1994 over, there's nothing you can do. Or is there? Once the year has ended, the tax accounts are mostly closed, allowing little room to maneuver. Yet there are still ways to cut your 1994 tax bill. Consider these possibilities:

•Look for statutory exceptions. The law permits some adjustments after a year ends, such as for an IRA contribution. Eligible taxpayers can invest until April 17. The deduc-tion for IRA contributions is phased out as your income increases, but for many it can still provide a tax benefit. Earnings on your IRA investments will not be taxed.

Self employed taxpayers may benefit by contributing to a Keogh plan, if the plan existed at the end of the prior year. No plan? Some may still benefit by establishing a SEP (Simplified Employee Pension), permitted even after the year ends. A SEP can be set up for a self employed individual as well as a corporation, partnership, S-corporation and limited liability corporations who have less than 25 employees.

Companies can also make deductible contributions to their employees SEP/IRA accounts as well as allow for contributions to be made by the employee through payroll deductions. SEP plans are simple to establish and usually have fewer administrative costs and filing requirements than Keogh and 401K plans.

•Don't overlook deductions. Many taxpayers miss deductions because of the law's complexity. One common oversight involves the home office, still a lawful deduction for many. Points paid for mortgage refinancing often get mishandled, too. Some taxpayers miss the tax-exempt status of savings bonds used to pay for education. Others overlook tax credits that they are entitled to take such as child care credit, which also allows for a portion of the amounts paid for a maid, housekeeper, babysitter or cook if they are at least partly for the well being and protection of a qualifying individual.

your eligibility for filing as head of household. If you're married and both of you work, co the tax consequences of filing jointly or separately. Under certain circumstances, filing separately will save you money. One election available this year applies to taxpayers hit by the new, retroactive 36 percent and 39.6 percent tax rates. The extra tax resulting from the higher tax rates can be paid in three installments, free of penalty and interest charges.

Don't be one of the many taxpayers who needlessly overpay their taxes.

Yes, you can get poison ivy from your pet's fur

You've enjoyed a leisurely stroll with your dog through a nearby wooded area or park. Although you didn't stray from the walk path, your dog (who you walk on a long flexi-leash) romped in and out of the bordering brush. Should you be concerned about getting poison ivy from your pet? Can poison ivy trigger an allergic skin reaction in your dog?

The answer is yes to the first question, says Dr. Karen Campbell, a small animal veterinarian specializing in dermatology at the Univ. of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine at Urbana. Pets, especially long-haired dogs, who come in contact with poison ivy can pass the plant oils from their fur or hair to their unsuspecting owners, causing a severe skin rash and itching.

Yes, is also the answer to the second question. Although cases are rare, the oils produced by the poison ivy plant can cause a skin reaction in dogs, says Dr. Campbell.

She explains that allergic skin reactions due to agents such as poison ivy fall into the "delayed hypersensitivity" category. This type of skin reaction may not appear until 24 to 72 hours following contact, with peak times around 48 hours. Owners may notice redness, bumps or blisters (which often crust over in a short time period) on the animal's unhaired or "less hairy" areas such as the abdomen, chin or between the foot pads.

A second allergic skin condition is called "immediate hypersensitivity." As the name states, these allergic reactions occur quickly, sometimes just 15 minutes following exposure. Agents such as house dust, fleas, pollen or various molds can trigger an immediate hypersensitivity reaction in an animal.

However, Dr. Campbell points out that with both "delayed and immediate hypersensitivity" skin conditions, the animal will not develop a reaction upon initial contact. "It may take two years of romping through poison ivy before your dog becomes sensitive to the plant," she says. "With these two conditions, a hereditary predisposition and a period of sensitization are factors required for the reaction to develop."

A third skin condition is called an "irritant-type reaction." With this condition, the agent causes immediate, direct damage to the skin. Examples include acids and other corrosive agents that your animal may accidentally come in contact with. There is no hereditary predisposition with this type of reaction. As a result, "irritant-type reactions" can affect all animals.

If your animal does exhibit signs of a skin reaction to poison ivy (redness, bumps, or blisters) or to other agents, Dr. Campbell encourages a visit to your pet's veterinarian for proper diagnosis and treatment. "You need to make sure it is not something else such as an allergic reaction to fleas, grasses or weeds," she says.

After walking your dog through wooded areas, grassy ditches, or parks, she recommends bathing the animal to wash off any possible oils or resins that may have collected on the animal's hair.

Always wear rubber gloves and only use a pet shampoo specifically made for dogs.

If you are walking in such areas, use good common sense. Always dress appropriately and watch for poison ivy and avoid it. The plant has leaves with three leaflets, greenish flowers and ivory-colored berries. Most local park systems are good about getting rid of poison ivy, when asked.—by CATHIE M. SABIN, B.C. Lake County Health Dept. serves 'Food for Thought'

"Food for Thought" was a radical change for a group of working parents whose usual late-day routine is to pick up their children at day care and think about making supper. For two evenings, the parents stayed on at the center for a delicious dinner and a chance to talk about raising their children.

During the programs held at eight day care centers, trained child care workers watched the children and gave them dinner while parents listened to experts discuss health, nutrition, child abuse prevention, safety, and discipline.

After the formal presentation, parents sat down for dinner a lively exchange of their own views and experiences.

"Food for Thought" is one of the creative programs that the Lake County Health Department's Div. of Health Facilities has developed to enhance the quality of child care services.

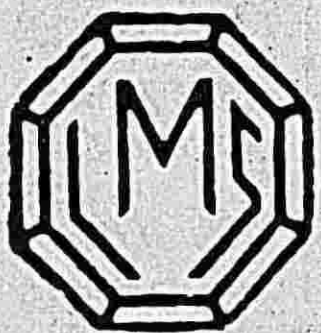

Operating under a grant from Illinois' Dept. of Children and Family Services, the division set up the program to show Lake County day care centers how a model parent education program can attract and benefit parents.

"After the enthusiastic response from parents, we're hoping the centers will repeat the programs on their own," said Charlene Hendrickson, the division's institutional nurse consultant.

Hendrickson and Barbara Haley, director of the health facilities division, belong to the Child Care Coalition of Lake County, the not-for-profit partnership of organizations and individuals working for children and families. The women represent the health department, which was a founding member of the Child Care Coalition.

Hendrickson and Haley are both registered nurses who understand how important a team effort is in promoting health. Three times a year, the department brings together Lake County child care providers who work in day care centers and family care homes. The seminars inform directors and teachers about issues in early childhood education and provide a forum for sharing ideas. During the course of a year, Hendrickson visits all the child care centers in Lake County to make sure children and teachers are healthy.

Hendrickson explained that her visits establish a collaborative relationship with center.—by CAROL BRUSSLAN, teacher at Family Network and editorial director of the Child Care Coalition of Lake County

Griefnotes

Do some people need special help dealing with grief?

Grieving people can experience numbness, anger, guilt, depression and anxiety. Over a period of time most people work through these feelings. But some, as many as 25 out of 100, have excessive difficulty dealing with their grief. They may be so depressed and confused that they can neglect important activities such as feeding children or going to work. The bereaved may cut themselves off from others, drink excessively or become very angry. Their grief may last much longer or be more intense than seems appropriate. People who experience excessive difficulties need extra support from friends and relatives. They may benefit from professional counseling. People who need such help should not be ashamed to seek it.

How To Survive The Job Search

By Nancy Sakol

Q: I am employed with a company for just a very short time. There is a person who works here that has been training me before she leaves for a new job elsewhere. The problem I am having is that she has made some awful remarks to me about the owner of the company and other co-workers. She warned me that the real reason she is leaving is that when she started she was told about insurance and told me not to hold my breath because the owner will never follow through. I have to work with this person for the next month for training before she leaves but I feel as though I should question this information that has been thrown in my lap. I don't want to be surprised to find out that I have put time in to this company that may not stand by what had been promised to me at the time of hire. What do you suggest I do? Thank you, M.L.R. - Lake Bluff

A: Dear M.L.R. This is a perfect example of why employers will ask an employee to leave the day that they give their notice. They can bad mouth, talk ill of management, co-workers, etc...without any worry as to being terminated...hey...they already quit! For your own interest however, don't assume this individual is feeding you correct information. There may be circumstances for this individual which may make her hard to insure...such as a pre-existing condition which the company insurance policy may not cover...who knows. The only thing that you do know is what you were told during the hiring process. To avoid any surprises down the road, my suggestion to you would be to ask the person who hired you for a meeting. Approach the situation in a professional manner, let them know that it came to you in the form of a warning, that the person you are replacing is leaving due to lack of insurance which had been promised. Inform the individual of the information told to you and stress to this person that while you are not one to listen to or pass on idle gossip, you felt that you should rather come and get the answer directly from the hiring authority. Do not be afraid to ask when the actual insurance benefits that were discussed at the time of hire will kick in. Ask if there is an insurance booklet explaining the insurance. It is Major Medical, HMO, PPO or whatever. If there is a standard employment handbook, perhaps you should have that, too...Don't wait too long...better there should be no surprises.

ADOPT ME!

Hi, my name is Jake and I'm a fluffy all-black cat who needs a good home. My current owners are very nice and are sad to see me go, but we all decided it would be best if I found a new home since they are expecting a new baby. My ideal home would be with a family that's loving and has older kids and a backyard to play in. I'm house-trained, but I need to be neutered. Call my owners at 548-5637 (after 5 p.m.) if it sounds like we're compatible. See you soon!

I HELPED SAVE A SMALL LIFE TODAY!

We don't destroy homeless animals! They live their full lives uncaged if not adopted.
We spay and neuter, conduct a dynamic pet visitation/therapy program for the elderly, provide education programs for young people and offer a special "pet retirement" program. THANK YOU FOR YOUR HELP!

TEG (403-30)
 By Landmark Designs, Inc.

TEG

If your family is one that prefers a spacious environment, or has plans for future growth, then the two-story, country style TEG might be right for you. The beautiful wooded exterior lends a quiet charm to this elegant home.

The 2030 square foot second floor of this plan contains the main sleeping areas. A huge master suite occupies one corner of this floor. There is plenty of room for a king-sized bed and there is a bay window for enjoying the outside view. Additional amenities in the master suite include his and her walk-in closets and a large private bathroom with vaulted ceiling, twin basins and spa. Two more bedrooms, ideal for younger children, are nearby. A full bathroom, along with a linen closet, laundry chute to the first floor, and extra storage area are in the connecting hallway.

Two more large, nearly identical rooms occupy the remainder of the top level. One is designed as a library/game room, and the other as the fourth bedroom. This room would work well as guest quarters.

The first floor layout provides an easy flow of movement throughout. To the left of the entry is a modest living room with a bay window facing the front yard. The expansive walk-through kitchen/family room combination is definitely the focal point of this home. An island cooktop allows the cook to prepare meals without missing any of the conversation. Formal meals may be served in the adjacent dining room, which also has a bay window. For more informal occasions, there is a very large nook that houses a walk-in pantry and has easy access to the wrap-around front porch.

The family room also has double doors that open to a small back deck that is just roomy enough for a few chairs and a barbecue. A corner fireplace keeps everyone warm and cozy. A small niche off the kitchen has a sink and laundry chute from the top floor. Extra storage space is available under the stairway.

The two-car garage has a utility room in the rear.

For a study kit of the TEG (403-30), send $10.00, to Landmark Designs, P.O. Box 2307-LP60, Eugene, OR 97402 (Be sure to specify plan name & number). For a collection of plan books featuring our most popular home plans, send $20 to Landmark.

HOROSCOPE

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) A new acquaintance has yet to earn your trust. However, given some time, this person proves to be a valuable ally. Your enthusiasm about a work project could cause you to work overtime now.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You need to be wary of business propositions with strings attached. Doing something different from your usual routine is lots of fun later in the week. Romantic bonds grow stronger now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Something you say this week could be taken in the wrong way by an associate on the job. Guard against such slips of the tongue as they cause more aggravation than is necessary. An intellectual project beckons.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) It's with partners that you share the greatest rapport this week, although your communication skills are highlighted. You also receive valuable feedback on your ideas. A loved one is testing you in some small way.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) You should act on those new moneymaking ideas of yours. Originality is a strong point this week. Someone close to you could be out of sorts and needs your special touch to cheer up. Shopping for the home is a plus over the weekend.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) You could be underestimating the difficulty of a task, but with perseverance, you'll eventually get things done in a satisfactory manner. A coworker can be helpful in this venture. Socializing is in the stars this weekend.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Use caution when shopping this week. Be sure to shop in reputable stores only. Otherwise, you could come out on the losing end of a proposition. You'll be making some positive changes at home base over the weekend.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Give a family member the benefit of the doubt this week. Your suspicions are unwarranted and are working overtime. Some could be hearing from a friend who hasn't been seen in a while. This person brings welcome news.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) You won't appreciate someone's snide remarks or power play efforts this week. However, you'll be enthusiastic and pleased about career-related developments. Much is accomplished by week's end and you're entitled to relax.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) You could have second thoughts about a matter in connection with a friendship. It's possible that you're right about this person and you're being taken advantage of. Take steps to remedy this.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You'll be investigating new ways to put your capital to good use this week. Someone close to you is being quite secretive about a business affair. Try to get to the bottom of this. The weekend brings happy times for you.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) You'll be dealing with someone who has contradictory opinions this week. Avoid letting this distract you from tasks at hand. Social times with partners and friends are highlighted this weekend.

Mowen brings his baseball expertise to CLC's staff

College of Lake County baseball coaches Gene Hanson and Rick Mowen discuss practice plans. Mowen joins the staff after many years as head baseball coach at Waukegan High.

STEVE PETERSON

Staff Reporter

Rick Mowen, former head baseball coach at Waukegan High, did not spend much time in retirement. Mowen is on the staff at the College of Lake County this spring, assisting head coach Gene Hanson.

"Gene and I have been friends for a long time. After retiring, I jumped at the chance to work with his program," Mowen said.

The Lancers are in pre-season workouts, preparing for a trip to Millikin March 10-11, weather permitting.

Mowen may be best known for his 1983 Waukegan team which won the high school state baseball title. But he has 300 wins, 5 Central Suburban League championships and 5 regional championships to his credit.

With 30 years of coaching experience, 50 former Bulldog players have gone on to college baseball careers, 12 signed by professional baseball teams and two have major league experience.

"It is such a pleasure to have Mowen on our staff. He has 30 years of successful coaching experience and our philosophies are very similar," Hanson said. "I have known him for 20 years and he is just so knowledgeable."

Both said there will be no specific duties for each coach, but each will be able to contribute where he sees his expertise lies.

Hanson has had assistants off an on over his more than 10 years as CLC mentor.

Mowen is impressed with the Lancers' work ethic during pre-season drills at the Grayslake school.

"I am excited. We have good players who work hard. Last year we were three innings away from the NJCAA World Series," Mowen, of Antioch, said.

Mowen, a graduate of former Dundee High, played football and baseball there as well as at University of Iowa. He was an end in football, a catcher in baseball.

"I was no superstar, but I enjoyed it," he stated.

Talent depth evident as Pats girls gain Elite Eight

Rebekah Ford managed a smile for a second when she grabbed a key offensive rebound with 35 seconds left.

Stevenson led Resurrection 53-47 at the time and was about to complete a dream Ford had set out to accomplish as a freshman: make the Elite Eight.

Stevenson prevailed 55-47, gaining a spot in the final quarterfinal game at Illinois State University's Redbird Arena Thursday. The Patriots' fans chant of "ISU, ISU, ISU," said it all.

The Big Three of Tauja Catchings, Tamika Catchings and Katie Coleman led the way for Stevenson's first-ever trip to Normal and the state finals had their big games of 24, 11 and 5 points but it was the play of the likes of Ford, Noelle Medenwaldt and Tricia DeClark which provided the spark.

"In the fourth quarter, we stepped it up and played Stevenson defense. In the first three quarters, we did not play well on defense," Coleman said.

Stevenson held the Bandits scoreless for the final 3:50 of the game and won the contest with a timely 11-0 run.

"It feels great," Ford said, summing up the feelings of all in forest green and gold.

"I thought Ford showed a tremendous amount of poise and senior leadership that every team needs. A lot of times, in games like this, it is the players no one hears about that come through big time. Ford was aggressive, tough," Mattucci said.

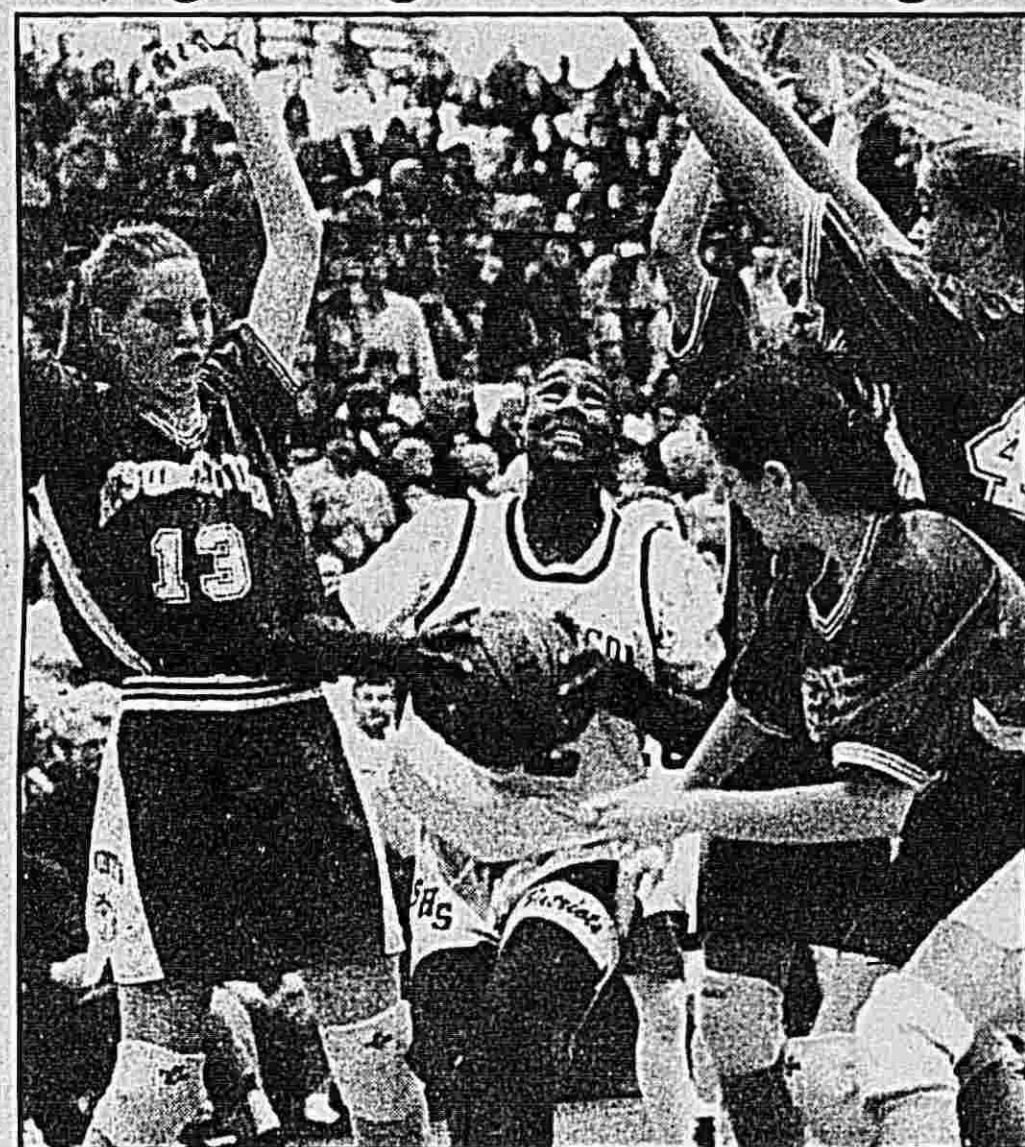

Afterward, as the celebration began at Maine West's court, it was Ford whom Mattucci congratulated early. Ford's 10 points more than doubled her average.

It was a play on defense that No. 35 will be most remembered.

Tauja Catchings scored her first basket of the fourth quarter for a 48-47 lead with 3:50 left. Ford then stole the ball at three-quarter court and drove to the basket for a lay-up.

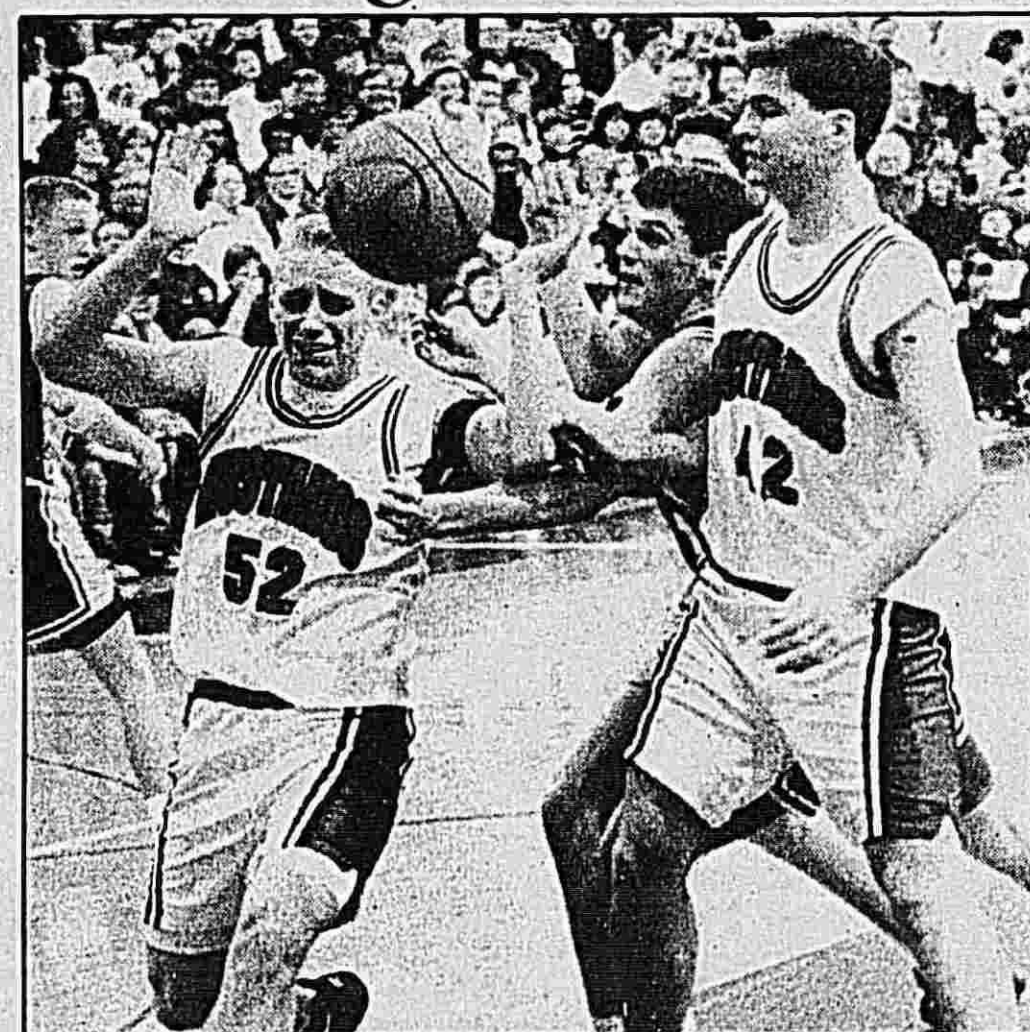

"I saw a little weakness in her dribbling. I tried to play her straight up," Ford said.

"Everyone on this team had a great game. The coach, the players See PATS page C20

Mustangs trounce Carmel, face Antioch next

The Mundelein Mustangs dominated in a 79-56 trouncing of Carmel to earn a berth in the regional finals. Mundelein meets Antioch, Friday in a 7:30 p.m. contest at home.

Senior guard Sean Stackhouse led the Mustangs with 18 points, Ivan Hourrutiner had 18 and Brian McMahon, 16.

"The keys to the (Antioch) game will be staying out of foul trouble and how well we play perimeter defense," said Dennis Kessel, Mundelein coach. The coach expects Antioch (a 55-44 victor over Lake Zurich, Tuesday) to possibly hold the ball and spread the floor. The Mustangs met the Sequoits twice in regular season play, taking the first game by a narrow 2 point margin and dominating in the final game, 85-71.

Kessel, in his last season as coach, is hoping to at least make the super sectional playoffs at Northwestern March 14.

"I've made the super sectionals with each team I've coached in the last year," he said.

Kessel is making no predictions, however, about the success of the Mustangs, a program he has built into a powerhouse over the last several years.

"We have to stay focused and take each game one at a time," he said. "We are not the type of team that knows they are going to win when they come out on the floor. We have to stay in control mentally at all times. Physically we are as good as any team."

Kessel says the sectional is up for grabs. "I think you can throw the top five seeds in a hat," he said. "I think Highland Park could be the surprise team."

Highland Park came back in the 4th quarter to eliminate Round Lake, 60-48. The Panthers had led the game throughout.

The battle of the Mundelein teams took place before a packed house at Mundelein High, Tuesday. Mike Graham led Carmel with 15 points. The balance of the team's points were well distributed amongst nine other players.

CLC men bow to Elgin; women forfeit tourney

College of Lake County men's basketball team proved to be no match for Skyway Conference foe Elgin.

The Lancers dropped the Region IV tournament game 105-65, finishing the season with a 12-18 overall record.

"ECC won the conference and they were the best team,"

CLC Coach Bruce Smith said.

CLC played a competitive first half as the Lancers trailed by only 8 points and enjoyed leads early on.

"They buried us in the second half," Smith said.

Sophomore Manuel Stutts, the team's leading scorer for the season, led the effort with 15 points. Another sophomore, Mike Rudd, had 14 points.

The loss closed the CLC careers of sophs Ronzeyl Newsome, Robert Kindle, Justin Hanlin and Ramsey Williams as well.

The 12 win season was disappointing for the Lancers after a strong start.

"We expected to get more out of all the sophomores than we got. We were not consistent. After the first six to 10 games, I thought we would do better," Smith said.

"In some games, he shot and rebounded well," Smith said of Stutts.

Guard Kelan Williams, of Waukegan and Kurt Filiatreault, a 6-foot, 4-inch post player and Grant High graduate, are the two freshmen who saw the most playing time.

It is time for Smith and women's coach Don Zeman to hit the recruiting trail as both seasons are over.

The women's team did not have a tourney game. They forfeited to Morton after one of the five players left. Ria Cruz, was injured in an automobile accident. The Lancers finished with a 4-20 record.

who did not play, we could not have gotten this far without support," Ford said.

That seemed to send the Bandits reeling, as they missed their next three shots. Another Tauja Catchings hoop upped the lead to five.

"It was a great team victory. I am very grateful that we were able to put on a spurt at the end. We've done this before - Whitney Young, Pinckerton, Libertyville - we've done that at the end of games. This team believes in itself. I really feel there is something special in this year for us," an elated Coach Frank Mattucci said. "My kids will sleep very easily tonight."

The win, Stevenson's 30th in a 30-2 year and Coach Mattucci's 100th as Patriot mentor, did not come without a price. Coleman played through despite taking some mean spills and perhaps most seriously, Tamika Catchings may have broken a wrist. X-rays were expected before the quarterfinal game Thursday night.

"Tauja and Tamika both had great games," Mattucci said.

"Coach gave me a speech on how I would have to play with pain to win this game," Coleman said. "Our depth really helped."

"We played great defense in the fourth quarter. We stopped their shooters, got in their face and rebounded. We went all out and dug down deep," Ford, a forward, said.

The game started out shaky for both teams as the two teams square off for a 10-10 tie after one.

Stevenson regained its shooting touch in the second quarter, making its first five shots. A three-point play by Tauja Catchings gave the Pats a 22-15 lead with 3:36 left.

It grew to 28-16 when it was Tauja Catchings again. This time, it was off her own steal for a lay-up. The biggest the lead reached was 12 points.

Then Stevenson committed a cardinal sin of how to lose a lead. Resurrection, which completed the season 23-7, went on a 14-of-18 tear from the free-throw line. That erased the lead when reserve Beth Gawlinski hit her only basket of the night for a 41-40 lead.

The Bandits, Girls Catholic Athletic Conference powers, led again on baskets from Tara Babich (12 points) and Amy Anderson (7 points).

But this was a night for the folks from Lincolnshire. The three-time North Suburban Conference champs and own sectional champs hope to make a trip to the Elite Eight something Normal.

"It was not this caliber. I know that for sure. I dreamed it, but that is about it. We are going downstate and it will be a lot of fun," Ford said.

Super-sectional notes:

Mattucci had high praise for the Bandits, who finish a 23-7 season. "That was a great club we beat there," he said.

He also noted the effort of Maine West officials in securing the court area afterward. It was after the sectional win over Libertyville that Coleman was injured when trampled by celebrating fans at Stevenson.

"I said, 'please Dad, don't let her blow this lay-up,'" Mattucci said of Ford's steal. He was referring to his late father, Louis, who died of a heart attack at a Patriots game in December.

"I was very happy for the girls. We worked very hard. It has not been an easy year. I told the kids on the busride to the game this could be our toughest game. At least we have a shot to find out," Mattucci, who received the customary dousing of post-game water, said.

Even the officials, Larry Evans and Tom Babba, received kudos for their handling of a sometimes physical game.

Stevenson concluded the quarterfinal round when it battled Joliet at Illinois State University March 2.

The Patriots brought a 30-2 record to Normal for the contest with the 27-4 Joliet club. Joliet advanced with a 60-44 win over Oak Forest.

Mustangs

The game got off to a slow start with both teams sluggish in the first half quarter. The Mustangs built a 15-7 lead in the first quarter but got the ball moving in the second quarter to build a 36-17 lead at the half.

"I think both teams came out here a little nervous," said Carmel Coach Ben Berg. "They got into the game after the first half quarter but it took us a quarter and a half to get going. This is the kind of team which brings a lot of runs at you. You have to respond to that."

Mundelein's dominance also showed on the boards as they out rebounded Carmel 39-25 with McMahon leading with 9. Stackhouse grabbed 8 and Hourruttiner 7. Mike Graham lead Carmel with 6 rebounds.

Stackhouse brought the over-flowing crowd to their feet twice during the game, the first time on a three-point shot to send the teams into the locker room at the half and the second on a slam dunk with 6 minutes remaining in the 4th. It was Stackhouse's final drive of the game.

Also adding three pointers for the Mustangs were: Hourruttiner with 7:25 left in the fourth, Dave Bumblis with 5 minutes left in the fourth and Bob Sutfin in the final seconds of the game.

The game ended the season for Carmel (5-21). The Corsairs will return next year with 9 team members a point which gives Berg optimism.

"We have to do some work in the off season," Berg said. "We really improved over the last month." Berg attributes the improvement to senior leadership.

"After the meeting we seemed to play better," Berg said. "I'm real proud of the seniors and the guys that have worked to replace the two we lost to injuries."

Kessel plans to leaving coaching behind to have the opportunity to spend more time with his own children who are enjoying success in collegiate and professional sports. Son, Kyle Kessel, is a freshman at Texas A & M, who set a record for scoring this season. Kyle has also been drafted by the New York Mets.

"There are a lot of good kids coming up," said Kessel of Mundelein's future. "It's hard to leave a program that you have built."
